50 : REMOTE / MULTI-LOCATION MEETING ARRANGEMENTS

The report enabled Members to consider new arrangements to be made for remote or multi-location meetings under the Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021.

A report was presented to Annual Council in May 2021, giving an overview of the new legislative provisions regarding local authority meetings and some of the practical issues raised.

As the rules for Council meetings are set out in the Constitution, it was noted that Constitution Committee would be asked to consider what arrangements should be made for 'multi-location meetings' in Cardiff and to make recommendations to full Council for approval.

In the interim, full Council noted that the existing arrangements for remote meetings, agreed by Council in May 2020, would continue, until any revised arrangements are agreed.

The Committee drew attention to IT Platforms, especially voting procedures that were being used.

The Committee was advised that although Microsoft Teams has been used for remote meetings during the pandemic, it was currently unable to effectively support dual language meetings. Microsoft had indicated that a multi-language capability should be available by the end of June 2021, but it was uncertain if this would be delivered. Initial preparations had been made to utilise the Zoom software, now that its security concerns have been addressed and it has proved to be effective for dual language Local Authority meetings.

The current voting procedure in place was a roll call, which did take on some occasions about 20 minutes depending on connectivity. Unfortunately, there was no suitable electronic voting system in place to be used at public meetings.

The Committee discussed issues experienced currently by Councillors when attending remotely and the policies in place to support this. The lack of paper copies could be an issue when IT equipment failed.

Members were of the view that two screens were required as a result of cameras being on permanently, along with the need for access to the specific documents.

The Committee discussed previous face to face meetings when members would leave the Council Chamber, also a distraction, along with further guidance on when screens should be on or off.

Members discussed Hybrid Meetings and how they would operate in the Committee Rooms and Council Chambers. Some members preferred remote meetings as it reduced travel time and benefited time management.

The Committee was informed that Welsh Government had passed legislation The Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021 ('the 2021 Act'), Part 3, Chapter

4, required local authorities to broadcast full Council meetings and to make and publish arrangements to ensure that all Council, Committee and Cabinet meetings may be attended remotely (ie. enabling persons who are not in the same place to attend the meeting) – also referred to as ‘multilocation meetings’. However, final guidance had not yet been issued and the 2 meter rule still applied in Wales.

Smaller meetings had been considered for face to face meeting, but currently the Council Chamber could only accommodate 25 persons under social distancing guidelines. Further entrance and exits also had to be monitored.

The Committee discussed the importance of attendance at meetings, and specific challenges when attending remotely. The requirement of attendance at committee meetings was addressed, along with the need to have the appropriate equipment in place to support this.

RESOLVED:

The Committee agreed to:

1. Note the information set out in the report and the draft statutory guidance, Appendix A;
2. Provide comments on the arrangements and policy to be adopted for multi-location meetings, and the engagement process for seeking the views of Members, other meeting participants and members of the public;
3. Instruct the Director of Governance and Legal Services, in consultation with the Chair, to prepare draft proposals for multi-location meetings, reflecting the views expressed, for further consideration by the Committee; and

Receive a further report on this matter in due course.

51 : COUNCIL MEETING PROCEDURE RULES

The report allowed the Committee to consider potential changes to the procedure rules for meetings of full Council and recommend any agreed changes to full Council for approval.

The Committee discussed White Papers.

By law, full Council must approve the key policies of the authority, referred to as the ‘Policy Framework’, defined in the Constitution (Article 4.2(a)). Under executive arrangements, the approval of all other policies, outside of the Policy Framework, was the responsibility of the Cabinet. Page 423 9. The Council Meeting Procedure Rules currently make provision for Green Papers to be introduced and debated at full Council – Rule 21; but there was no provision for White Papers. Two Green Papers were introduced in 2018 – ‘Building More and Better Jobs’ (January 2018); and ‘Transport and Clean Air’ (June 2018). No other Green Papers have been brought forward since 2018.

Members of the Committee agreed to accept the recommendations of the Standards and Ethics Committee that oral questions should be read orally, so that members of the public may understand the question which is being answered; and the recommended amendments to the rules.

Members also discussed the submission period for questions. Currently Written questions were submitted 9am 9 Working days prior to Council Meetings. Oral questions were submitted 9am 4 Working days prior to Council Meetings. This deadline had changed as a result of the COVID-19 measures in place and to deal with staffing resource issues. The Committee discussed the timescales for questions, and suggested that the deadline for Oral Questions be moved back to the Tuesday before the Council meeting. The Chairperson suggested that cross party agreement was required for changes to Oral Questions deadline and that could be dealt with by the Monitoring Officer.

Members of the Committee discussed the current rules on the scope of Motions in light of some Motions being ruled out of order as they had been deemed not 'relevant business' as defined in the Council's rules. Following debate about the proper scope of Motions, Members agreed that some widening of the rules should be made to recognise the legitimate role of Council to lobby other bodies, such as central government, on matters within their responsibility. It was agreed that the Monitoring Officer should be asked to draft appropriate amendments to the current rules to reflect this, for consideration by Committee.

RESOLVED:

The Committee agreed to:

1. agree the recommended changes to be made to Rule 17 of the Council Meeting Procedure Rules to require oral questions to be read orally at the Council meeting;
2. instruct the Monitoring Officer to draft suitable amendments to the rules on the scope of Ordinary Motions, for consideration and approval by the Committee; and
3. receive a further report at its next meeting.

52 : CONSTITUTION UPDATE

The report was to inform the Committee of various amendments required to ensure the Constitution remains up to date and fit for purpose

The changes were in relation to the following:

- Section 151 Officer Delegation, Reference FS10
- Pensions Board Terms of Reference
- Channel Panel
- Delegations for Appropriation of Land
- Regrading Applications of Operational Managers

- b) to decide requests for re-grading of Chief Officers and Deputy Chief Officers (as defined in the Local Authorities (Standing Orders) (Wales) Regulations 2006), except for Operational Managers deemed to be classed as Deputy Chief Officers, whose applications may be determined under Chief Executive officer delegation within the remuneration framework for Page 807 Operational Managers, together with any other category of employee specified in Regulation from time to time, whether by way of appeal by an employee against a decision to refuse a re-grading application or to decide applications for re-grading which are supported, subject to the approval of Council in respect of any determination or variation of the remuneration of a Chief Officer
- Members' / Senior Officers' Planning Applications

The Committee was informed this was a tidying up exercise and the Trade Unions had been consulted as appropriate and had raised no concerns.

Members of the Committee discussed the regrading of Operational Managers who fall within the statutory definition of a Deputy Chief Officer because they report directly to a Chief Officer. Some Members were concerned that the officer delegation should not be used to change approved staffing structures. The Chairperson was of the view the Chief Executive as Head of Paid Service had the responsibility to authorise the re-grading of staff at this level. The increase in salary was marginal but a report on these actions could be reported to the Audit Committee for transparency if necessary. An alternative suggestion was to require consultation with the Chair of the Employments Condition Committee.

The Committee Agreed that the Chief Executive may exercise delegated powers for Operational Managers re-grading and for transparency provide an update report to the Audit Committee.

The Committee discussed Members/Senior Officers Planning Applications. The Committee noted the following:

Under the Scheme of Delegations (Section 4F), the Head of Planning has delegated authority to determine all planning applications, with the exception of certain specified matters which are reserved for decision by the Planning Committee. The list of matters reserved for decision by the Planning Committee includes:

- (i) Planning applications submitted by current Elected Members of the Council, Directors and Assistant Directors.

The purpose of this exception is to guard against any allegations or appearance of undue influence in the decision making process.

Planning applications may be submitted directly or through an agent. For the avoidance of any doubt, it is recommended that the exception to the Head of Planning's delegated authority should be amended to clarify that this includes any applications submitted on behalf of a Member or Director / Assistant Director. It is also recommended, for the same reasons, that this exception should extend to the Head of Planning. The recommended amendments are as follows:

(i) Planning applications submitted by or on behalf of any current Elected Members of the Council, Directors and Assistant Directors or the Head of Planning.

This would clarify that any planning application submitted by or on behalf of an elected Member, any Director / Assistant Director , or the Head of Planning must be determined by the Planning Committee.

The Committee noted that concerns had been raised about extending this further to include Operational Managers. Therefore, Operational Managers were not to be included in the proposed amendments, as set out in the Amendment Sheet to the Committee's report. The Committee was advised that if the Committee wishes to consider this further, the Monitoring Officer may be asked to consult with staff as necessary and bring a report on this to a future meeting.

The Committee discussed the role of planning officers at committee, along with potential influence that could be perceived, when considering planning applications.

The Committee also noted that this rule applied to all elected members that submitted planning applications.

RESOLVED:

The Committee agreed the Constitution amendments set out in the report, subject to the changes set out in the Amendment Sheet, and agreed to recommend the same to full Council for approval.

53 : FORWARD WORK PLAN 2021/2022

The Committee received and was asked to consider and approve the Constitution Committee Forward Work Plan for 2021-22 as detailed in Appendix A to this report.

RESOLVED:

The Committee approved the Forward Work Plan 2021-22, and the areas considered as priorities as set out in Appendix A.

54 : URGENT ITEMS (IF ANY)

There was no urgent business.

REPORT OF DIRECTOR OF GOVERNANCE AND LEGAL SERVICES AND MONITORING OFFICER

MULTI-LOCATION MEETING ARRANGEMENTSReason for this Report

1. The purpose of this report is to provide the Constitution Committee with an update on the development of multi-location meeting arrangements and an early draft of a Multi-Location Meetings Policy for its consideration and direction.

Background

2. Arrangements were first made in legislation to allow for “remote meetings” in section 4 of the Local Government (Wales) Measure 2011. At the outset of the coronavirus pandemic in March 2020, the Welsh Government produced the Local Authorities (Coronavirus) (Meetings) (Wales) Regulations 2020. These established a framework within which the Council convened meetings by remote means throughout 2020 and part of 2021.
3. Experience of operating meetings under these Regulations has provided the Council with expertise in understanding and managing multi-location meetings, now they have been placed on a new statutory footing. The provisions in the 2021 Act can be seen as an evolution of these prior arrangements.
4. Interim statutory guidance was issued in May 2021 (Appendix A). This guidance is for Principal Councils and does not include convening meetings of the Corporate Joint Committees (CJCs) which the Cardiff Capital Region City Deal will become in due course. Separate guidance for the CJCs is being prepared by the Welsh Government.

Issues

5. Under the Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021, local authorities are required to put in place, and publish, arrangements for multi-location meetings, that is, formal meetings where meeting participants may not all be in the same physical place. The meeting arrangements are comprised of the rules and procedures adopted by the local authority in accordance with the statutory requirements, and should be reflected in the Council’s Constitution, as appropriate (Statutory Guidance, point 1.3).
6. Alongside the legally mandated arrangements that authorities must make for multi-location meetings, the draft guidance says that authorities should develop a wider policy setting out the detailed systems chosen by the authority for the operation of its multi-location meetings. This policy should be developed in consultation with all meeting participants, including the public.

7. To progress the implementation of Cardiff Council's Multi-Location Meetings Policy an initial draft of the policy is attached at Appendix B. The draft policy reflects the interim statutory guidance which indicates that the exact contents of a policy will be agreed at local level, however the experience of Local Authorities in the past suggests that it should include:
- How to decide which meetings will have physical provision made for them, and which will be conducted wholly through remote means.
 - Which online meeting platform or platforms which will be used.
 - How formal notices will be issued, and the publication of agendas and minutes.
 - How exempt matters will be dealt with.
 - Meeting attendance, including deciding where a member is "present".
 - How participants who sit as part of committees or bodies subject to the Act will be able to access and participate in the meeting (including support and advice on technology, behavioural and conduct issues).
 - How observers (including the public and the press) will be able to access the meeting, and how they may actively participate in the meeting where needed.
 - Facilitating broadcast by members of the public and by the authority itself (covered by separate guidance).
 - Chairing of meetings.
 - The taking of votes.
 - Training and peer support to ensure that participants are able to take part.

Benefits and Challenges of Multi-location meetings

8. The benefits of multi-location meetings are identified in the guidance and have been mirrored in the draft policy but no specific challenges were identified. The following challenges are considered relevant to balance the policy:
- a. Suitable technology – before 2020, there was little or no technology other than basic video conferencing and webcasting. The rapid development of remote working technology during the coronavirus pandemic made basic remote meetings possible. The complexity of equipment and software necessary to deliver public multi-location meetings requires a significant further step-change in technology.

- b. Reliance on the internet – Participants involved in remote meetings are reliant on having a suitable internet connection to join and maintain their presence in this type of meeting.
- c. Cultural change – significant progress was made by the authority, its Elected Members and public participants in adapting to remote meetings during the coronavirus pandemic. The development of multi-location meetings provides a significant cultural challenge from the existing processes for all those involved in the decision-making processes of the Council.
- d. Accessibility and Security – the wide scale accessibility requirements of multi-location meetings facilities also needs to address the security of information and of meetings particularly when meetings can be recorded and broadcast.
- e. Involvement and participation – The level of interest in local government decision-making is low and usually limited to those issues which have a specific personal impact. Whilst the pandemic provided an opportunity to increase the level of observers at meetings, it is uncertain whether this will continue as the pandemic eases. Encouraging the public to become involved in the wider decision-making issues facing the Council will be an ongoing challenge.

Meeting locations and Equipment

- 9. The Council is in the process of procuring a new conference system which will better enable the requirements of multi-location meetings to be met. This includes: microphones, cameras, display screens, simultaneous translation equipment, audio enhancement and facilities for the hard of hearing. To coordinate all of the systems, meeting management software will integrate both remote and physical participants into single common functionality to provide: requests to speak, speaker queues, electronic voting, vote results and a dual-language remote meeting facility.
- 10. This equipment will be installed in three primary venues, the City Hall and County Hall Council Chambers and Committee Room 4 in County Hall and will integrate with the existing webcasting equipment. Following implementation of the new conferencing systems, further development work will be undertaken to widen the range of venues and equipment to support multi-location meetings with a physical focus in locations across the city.
- 11. Zoom software has been procured following receipt of a Welsh Government grant from the Digital Democracy Fund. The use of this software will need to be developed for formal public meetings to provide simultaneous translation facilities for remote meetings.
- 12. ICT Equipment is provided for Elected Members to enable them to access remote multi-location meetings. This ICT equipment will be refreshed following the 2022 Local Government Elections

13. It should be noted that the rapid development of software, equipment and the processes to deliver multi-location meeting may require the policy and any associated guidance and documents to be updated.

Determination of meeting types

14. Physical meetings should not be seen as representing the “gold standard” with multi-location meetings being second best. Physical meetings may be convenient and effective for those most familiar with and comfortable with how they work – but they may also be inaccessible and impractical to many.

Predominantly Remote Meetings

15. Cardiff Council administers both the Glamorgan Archives and Prosiect Gwyrdd Joint Committees. Given the challenges of travelling significant distances across the region and the need to ensure maximum participation, these meetings have been initially identified as “predominantly remote meetings”. This would also support the intentions of the Wellbeing of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015 and One Planet Cardiff, by helping to reduce the carbon footprint of holding these meetings. Remote meetings can also help the Authority to reduce the risk of future unexpected events such as extreme weather.
16. Informal discussions with the Chair of the Prosiect Gwyrdd Joint Committee also identified a preference for remote meetings. This does not preclude participants meeting physically and further engagement with representatives of the joint committees will be undertaken to determine their preference.

Predominantly Physical meetings

17. Experience has identified that some meetings such as Public Protection Sub-Committee may be better suited to having a higher level of physical attendance. However, this does not preclude some or all participants attending these meetings remotely if they wish or if there are overriding reasons for doing so. These meetings may include:
 - a. Appointments Committees
 - b. Council Appeals Committee
 - c. Employment Conditions Committee
 - d. Licensing Sub Committee
 - e. Public Protection Sub Committee
 - f. Standard and Ethics Sub Committee (Hearings Panel)

Multi-location Meetings

18. All Council, Cabinet and committee meetings must be able to operate as multi-location meetings and ensure that participants are able to attend remotely. The policy identifies opportunities for each decision making body to collectively agree the number of their meetings which are to be held predominantly physically or predominantly remotely during each municipal year.

Webcasting of Meetings

19. The Council currently has a webcasting contract of 200 hours per year and this provides sufficient time to support the following committees and where resources allow other meetings with a significant public interest can be included:
 - a. Council
 - b. Cabinet
 - c. Planning Committee
 - d. Governance and Audit Committee
 - e. Children and Young People Scrutiny Committee
 - f. Community & Adult Services Scrutiny Committee
 - g. Economy & Culture Scrutiny Committee
 - h. Environmental Scrutiny Committee
 - i. Policy Review and Performance Scrutiny Committee
 - j. Standards and Ethics Committee
20. If the requirement to webcast increases to include other committees, additional funding will be required to support any change in the requirement.

Engagement with Participants

21. The guidance indicates that decisions about local democracy and the best approaches to promote and encourage engagement in local democratic systems are best made at a local level. Therefore, the policy will be aligned with the Council's public participation obligations under the Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021, to provide an understanding of the specific needs of a wide range of local people.
22. To support the development and implementation of the multi-location meetings policy, further engagement with Elected Members and other meeting participants will be undertaken. This will also assist in the development and completion of an equalities impact assessment which will accurately reflect the needs of those participating in meetings.
23. Initial discussions with the research team have identified that the Citizens Panel with approximately 5,500 public representatives and the Youth Council could form the basis of any public engagement. The details of the consultation are to be developed and scheduled accordingly.

Documentation

24. The guidance identifies the importance of ensuring that participants and observers have access to easy-to-understand information which explains how they can and should engage in multi-location meetings. The documentation can be part of the multi-location meetings policy but should also be available separately and may constitute a simple explanation of some of those arrangements for the casual reader.
25. To minimise changes to the policy once it is approved, it is proposed that the associated documents be published separately with reference made to them in the main policy document.

Progressing the multi-location meetings arrangements

26. The Constitution Committee is requested to provide its views and direction for the development of the initial draft of the multi-location meetings policy. The updated policy will be presented to the committee on 3 February 2022 for further consideration, together with recommended amendments to the Constitution required to reflect the proposed meeting arrangements
27. Once agreed by the committee, the multi-location meetings policy will be submitted to Cabinet for approval.
28. Full Council will need to approve the required changes to the Constitution.

Legal Implications

29. The Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021 ('the 2021 Act'), Part 3, Chapter 4, requires local authorities to broadcast full Council meetings and to make and publish arrangements to ensure that all Council, Committee and Cabinet meetings may be attended remotely (ie. enabling persons who are not in the same place to attend the meeting) – also referred to as 'multilocation meetings'.
30. Meetings must be capable of being held virtually, but individual authorities must decide whether their meetings will be held fully virtually, partially virtually (where some participants are in the same physical location, whilst others join the meeting virtually, referred to as 'hybrid meetings') or as physical meetings (although authorities may not mandate physical attendance at meetings).
31. Meeting participants must be able to speak to and hear each other; and for meetings which are required to be broadcast (ie. full Council meetings), participants must also be able to see and be seen by each other.
32. The 2021 Act makes permanent the changes to electronic publication of meeting documentation, which were introduced by the 2020 Coronavirus Meeting Regulations. Under the 2021 Act, all meeting documents, including notices, summonses, agendas, reports and background papers must be published on the Council's website. A note of the meeting, including Members in attendance and decisions made, must be published within 7 working days of the meeting. Notice of meetings is no longer required to be posted at the Council's offices. However, copies of agendas and reports must be made available for the public if meetings are held physically; and the Council is also required to make public access provision for members of the public who cannot access electronic documents (for example, by providing access to computers, copies of documents, or making documents available for inspection.)
33. The 2021 Act also introduces a new duty on local authorities, with effect from 5th May 2022, to encourage local people to participate in their decision making and to prepare and publish a public participation strategy detailing how it will meet this duty.
34. When considering arrangements for remote attendance or 'multi-location meetings', authorities must have regard to statutory guidance issued by the Welsh Ministers.

35. The statutory guidance sets out a number of general principles to guide authorities when developing their meeting arrangements, namely, transparency, accessibility, good conduct, Welsh language, local needs and future generations – as detailed in section 2 of the guidance. This sets the framework within which authorities must consider options and decide the meeting arrangements which best suit the authority and the communities it serves.
36. In considering this matter, the Council must have regard to its public sector equality duties under the Equality Act 2010 (including specific Welsh public sector duties). Pursuant to these legal duties, Councils must in making decisions have due regard to the need to (1) eliminate unlawful discrimination, (2) advance equality of opportunity and (3) foster good relations on the basis of protected characteristics. The Protected characteristics are: age, gender reassignment, sex, race – including ethnic or national origin, colour or nationality, disability, pregnancy and maternity, marriage and civil partnership, sexual orientation, religion or belief – including lack of belief. When taking strategic decisions, the Council also has a statutory duty to have due regard to the need to reduce inequalities of outcome resulting from socio-economic disadvantage ('the Socio-Economic Duty' imposed under section 1 of the Equality Act 2010). In considering this, the Council must take into account the statutory guidance issued by the Welsh Ministers and must be able to demonstrate how it has discharged its duty. An Equalities Impact Assessment should be carried out to identify the equalities implications of the proposed arrangements, including inequalities arising from socio-economic disadvantage, and due regard should be given to the outcomes of the Equalities Impact Assessment.
37. The Council must also be mindful of the Welsh Language (Wales) Measure 2011 and the Welsh Language Standards and consider the impact of its arrangements upon the Welsh language.
38. The Well-being of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015 requires the Council to consider how its proposals will contribute towards meeting its well being objectives (set out in the Corporate Plan). Members must also be satisfied that the proposals comply with the sustainable development principle, which requires that the needs of the present are met without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs.
39. Other relevant legal implications are set out in the body of the report.

Financial Implications

40. The procurement of the Council's conferencing systems has been allocated funding from the capital programme and the Council's webcasting facility is funded from the Democratic Services budget.
41. A capital bid of £130k has been submitted to meet the ICT requirements for Elected Members following the 2022 Local Government Elections and to enable them to participate in multi-location meetings. This is planned to be supplemented by £40k from the Democratic Services reserve.

42. Funding for any additional requirements to support the provision of multi-location meetings has not been identified and will need to be appropriately sourced in liaison with the Director of Governance and Legal Services.

RECOMMENDATIONS

43. The Constitution Committee is recommended to:
- a. Consider the content of the report and the draft Multi-Location Meetings Policy.
 - b. Provide relevant direction for the development of the policy.

1 INTRODUCTION

1.1 Purpose of this guidance

This is interim guidance to support the provision of multi-location meetings for principal councils, which means county and county borough councils, National park authorities, fire and rescue authorities, and Port health authorities in Wales (referred to as relevant authorities). This is covered by section 47 of the Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021, which we refer to as “the 2021 Act”. This guidance will continue to be developed in light of the operation and experience of implementing the provisions of the 2021 Act and will be incorporated into a wider set of guidance which is being prepared to address a range of other provisions contained within the 2021 Act.

The overall purpose of the Welsh Government in amending the law to give relevant authorities powers and freedoms to convene meetings in this way is to achieve greater accessibility and improved public participation in local government. These powers are closely connected with the new requirement for principal councils to broadcast (by audio and/or video) certain meetings. This responsibility to broadcast is not covered directly in this guidance and will not come in to force until May 2022.

Multi-location meetings offer authorities the potential to update and transform the way they do business. It provides an opportunities for authorities to become more flexible and efficient and also raise their profile in the local community and to bring their work directly into people’s homes. Public access to multi-location meetings is likely to be significantly higher than the level of audiences of formal meetings when all were held physically – attendance levels during the pandemic bear this out. This heightened public awareness and involvement is to be welcomed – and further encouraged. In particular, authorities will need to think directly about the needs of the public as they design their arrangements and policies for multi-location meetings. While these meetings are still “meetings in public” rather than “public meetings” – by and large the public will be able to observe but not participate – they provide a crucial opportunity for accountability and transparency, and an accessible shop window for many public bodies.

This guidance is for principal councils, National park authorities, fire and rescue authorities, and port health authorities. This guidance does not cover the arrangement by other public bodies of their own formal meetings, or the organisation by public bodies (including councils) of public meetings or any other gathering. It also does not include the convening of formal meetings by corporate joint committees (CJCs) or community councils, on which separate guidance is being prepared.

This guidance is intended for:

- Participants in meetings convened by the authorities listed above;
- Officers providing support to formal meetings in these authorities;
- Officers with adjacent responsibilities – for example, those responsible for drafting and clearing reports, attending meetings to present reports to members and officers with supervisory responsibilities on governance matters;
- Anyone with an interest in the way in which the business of these authorities is conducted.

Generally speaking the requirements for all relevant authorities is similar, although differences do exist – especially relating to the convening of multi-location meetings of local authority executives, which is covered in section 4.3.

Relevant authorities are required to “have regard to” the guidance. Where authorities are under an existing statutory obligation to carry out an act the guidance says that they “must” do something; where there is no such obligation but the guidance presents a suggestion on a possible course of action, the guidance says that a council “can” or “may” do something.

1.2 How this guidance was developed

This guidance was developed between February and April 2021. It was drafted by the Centre for Governance and Scrutiny, Cardiff University and Public Governance Wales, who were commissioned by Welsh Government to speak to people with a stake and interest in this area and to develop the text as a result of these conversations.

This is interim guidance, which will be reviewed and where necessary amended in May 2022 based on the experiences of relevant authorities, and the public.

1.3 Definitions of words used in this document

Generally, the words used in this guidance have the same meaning as they do in the 2021 Act.

A “relevant authority” is an organisation which is required to put in place arrangements for multi-location meetings. This covers principal councils, fire and rescue authorities, National parks authorities and port health authorities. It also includes joint committees of these bodies. The obligations of corporate joint committees (CJCs) and of community and town councils are covered in separate guidance.

A “meeting” is a formal meeting of a relevant authority convened in accordance with whatever the legal requirements are for such meetings. Formal meetings are usually those where formal decisions can be made; these meetings may need to be held in public and that notice is published beforehand that they are being held. This is not always the case as some meetings, or parts of meetings, are held in private due to confidentiality or exempt issues being discussed. When we talk about these meetings being “convened”, we mean the process involved in organising the meeting and setting and distributing an agenda and reports.

A “multi-location meeting” is a meeting of a relevant authority whose participants are not all in the same physical place. In some places these are colloquially described as “remote” meetings. The 2021 Act does not refer to these meetings as “remote”, but that they are attended by “persons who are not in the same place”.

At least one participant may be joining the meeting by remote means. For example, this includes meetings of the type described below:

- Meetings of a committee where all participants are in the same physical location except one individual who joins from another location, with a physical public gallery being provided;
- Meetings of a committee where a roughly equal number of members are present in a physical space and joining through remote means; those joining through remote means may include the Chair;
- Meetings of a committee where all members are joining through remote means but nonetheless a physical public gallery has been made available in authority premises;
- Meetings of a committee taking place wholly through remote means where no physical arrangements have been made.

Some have described the kinds of meetings described above as “hybrid meetings”. This guidance and Section 47 of the 2021 Act makes no distinction between meetings where some participants join by remote means and those where all participants do so, but meeting arrangements will need to account for the practical differences that different forms of meetings will take, and make plans accordingly.

The definition of “Joining a meeting by remote means” is being in a different physical location to that of other participants, and participating through an online meeting platform. Where participants are present in a committee room or other physical space which is publicised (through a formal notice) as being the location of the meeting, those participants are present physically.

A “participant” of a multi-location meeting is a person who takes an active part in that meeting. They might be a member, a person giving evidence to a committee as a witness, an appellant or claimant on a regulatory matter, someone presenting a petition, or taking part formally in another way.

An “observer” of a multi-location meeting is a member of an audience, or otherwise spectating, a multi-location meeting. They might be in the same room that a meeting is taking place or they might be observing by remote means.

“Meeting arrangements” are the rules and procedures that relevant authorities adopt to act on their statutory requirements relating to multi-location meetings, and to act on the recommendations in this guidance. This guidance suggests that these arrangements will form part of relevant authorities’ constitutions, where they are required.

1.4 Background to multi-location meetings

Arrangements were first made in legislation to allow for “remote meetings” in section 4 of the Local Government (Wales) Measure 2011.

At the outset of the coronavirus pandemic in March 2020, the Welsh Government produced the Local Authorities (Coronavirus) (Meetings) (Wales) Regulations 2020. These established a framework within which all relevant authorities convened meetings by remote means throughout 2020 and part of 2021. Experience operating meetings under these Regulations has provided relevant authorities with significant expertise in understanding and managing multi-location meetings, now they have been placed on a new statutory footing. The provisions in the 2021 Act can be seen as an evolution of these prior arrangements.

1.5 The benefits of multi-location meetings

Councils, and other relevant authorities, have been convening all their meetings by remote means throughout much of 2020 and 2021. While meeting this way has proven challenging in the context of the global coronavirus pandemic, it has also resulted in a number of benefits.

- Enhancing and supporting local democracy. Having the flexibility to convene meetings in this way will reduce the barriers that might previously have been in place for explaining and demonstrating how relevant authorities do business;
- Working more productively. When participants come together by remote means, they have often been able to get more done. Multi-location meetings have also resulted in a dramatic reduction in the amount of paper needed and produced. The move to an approach which sees the production of formal notices and other material as being “online by default” will make it easier for councils to innovate around the use of formal meeting material;
- Making it easier for the public to attend meetings. Although experiences have been mixed, public attendance has been higher for multi-location meetings than for meetings in person. Some relevant authorities, in particular, found both before and during the pandemic that multi-location meetings have made it possible to include external participants actively, ensuring that committees can benefit from a greater range of views. Relevant authorities have reported that members of the public think that multi-location meetings are much less intimidating than those held in person, and that they have the potential to encourage more people to stand for public office. For some though, multi-location meetings will also present challenges – for example, those with poor broadband connections or disabled people unable to access meetings over the internet for other reasons;

- Making relevant authorities more resilient and sustainable in how they carry out their work. The Wellbeing of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015 requires relevant authorities to think about, and act on, long term needs in the way that policy is developed and made. Multi-location meetings reduce the carbon footprint of physical meetings (although digital activity is not of course carbon-neutral). They can also help relevant authorities to reduce the risk of future unexpected events – such as extreme weather – which could in future present a challenge to in-person meetings. Issues of sustainability are explored in more detail below;
- Making the use of the Welsh medium easier. Relevant authorities' experience during 2020 has been that the simultaneous translation on platforms such as Zoom has reduced some of the practical difficulties which some authorities have experienced around facilitating bilingualism in public meetings.
- Reducing the need for travel. For more rural relevant authorities and for relevant authorities covering large geographical areas and for joint bodies, significant time and cost savings for councillors, officers and other participants have arisen. In turn, this makes it easier for participants to take part if they have professional and caring commitments – potentially removing some significant barriers to standing for public office. ;
- Better support for members from diverse backgrounds, including support that recognises the social model of disability. Just as barriers are being removed to public participation, multi-location meetings have made it easier for care providers, or disabled people, or people with other protected characteristics, to engage on an equal footing. In some cases, participants have found the formality of physical meetings to be off putting, and multi-location meetings have removed this factor. Of course, this raises broader issues around the way that relevant authorities work generally, and the extent to which they welcome participation and involvement from a wide range of people. These are not matters which will be resolved through multi-location meetings alone, but such meetings could be a tool that will, in due course, help a wider range of people to take an active role in local democracy;
Better behaviours. Although experiences have been mixed, on the whole meeting management and the behaviours of participants have both improved. It has been easier for Chairs of meetings to understand who wants to make a contribution, although it is harder to read body language. Disruption of meetings by political argument (for example) seems to have been less of a theme as well.

Physical meetings should not be seen as representing the “gold standard” with multi-location meetings being second best. . Physical meetings may be convenient and effective for those most familiar with and comfortable with how they work – but they may also be inaccessible and impractical to many. All meetings that meet the required communication and quorate arrangements have equal status under the law.

For some, there have been drawbacks to multi-location meetings. In particular, people have had worries about the need for more council officers to support them. In time, ongoing experience is likely to improve this and reduce the amount of resource required to support them.

1.6 What this guidance covers

This guidance focuses particularly on arrangements for the convening of formal meetings held by relevant authorities under the 2021 Act, and the Local Authorities (Executive Arrangements) (Decisions, Documents and Meetings) (Wales) Regulations 2001 as amended by the Local Authorities (Executive Arrangements) (Decisions, Documents and Meetings) (Wales) (Amendment) Regulations 2021.

. Guidance for principal councils on broadcasting these meetings, where required in law, is being provided separately.

Together, this legislation updates arrangements for the management of these meetings and enhances transparency and public access.

This guidance also engages with other enactments relating to this issue, as well as with the wider local democratic context within which the Act sits.

This guidance focuses particularly on arrangements for the convening and broadcast of formal local authority meetings. Provisions relating to local authority meetings are included in various pieces of legislation, including but not limited to:

- The Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021
- The Local Government Act 2000
- The Local Government Act 1972
- The Local Authorities (Executive Arrangements) (Decisions, Documents and Meetings) (Wales) Regulations 2001 as amended by the Local Authorities (Executive Arrangements) (Decisions, Documents and Meetings) (Wales) (Amendment) Regulations 2021. The National Park Authorities (Wales) Order 1995
- The North Wales Fire Services (Combination Scheme) Order 1995
- The Mid and West Wales Fire Services (Combination Scheme) Order 1995
- The South Wales Fire Services (Combination Scheme) Order 1995

Chapter 4 of Part 3 of the 2021 Act covers meetings convened by relevant authorities, as well as by certain other bodies and organisations. In respect of principal councils, community and town councils, National parks authorities, fire and rescue authorities and port health authorities, it covers:

- Electronic broadcasts of meetings. Principal councils must make arrangements for broadcasting certain meetings live, and ensuring that broadcasts are available electronically afterwards. A failure to comply with this requirement does not necessarily make proceedings invalid (s46). Separate Regulations and guidance are being prepared on this matter;
- Attendance at meetings: Relevant authorities must make arrangements for “multi-location” meetings, at which participants can speak to and be heard by each other. Where meetings must be broadcast participants must also be able to see each other (s47);
- Notice of meetings, and publication of agendas: Relevant authorities must publish certain information, including notices of meetings, electronically, and electronic information relating to meetings must remain available in this format for six years following the date of the meeting (Part 1 of Schedule 4 to the 2021 Act, amending the Local Government Act 1972). Relevant authorities must also put in place facilities for the public who would otherwise not be able to do so, to access meeting documents.

Arrangements for the broadcast of meetings (physical or multi-location) held by relevant authorities is explored in separate Regulations and will come into force in May 2022 and separate guidance will apply. However, relevant authorities are likely to need to consider the requirement to broadcast alongside the need to make provision for multi-location meetings. This is the reason for suggesting that meeting arrangements take account of both requirements.

2. GENERAL PRINCIPLES

Relevant authorities will need to think about and agree independently the details of their own arrangements for multi-location meetings. In doing so, they should be guided by the following general principles.

All of the below relate to legal obligations. In developing meeting arrangements, relevant authorities will need to explicitly assure themselves that these principles are understood, taken into account and acted on, possibly through being the subject of specific discussion at meetings to ensure standing orders are amended by Democratic Services Committee or other bodies in relevant authorities.

Of paramount importance are the needs of local democracy. Local people need to have confidence that relevant authorities have systems in place that meet their needs – this might be about observing meetings, participating in them, and using this to hold to account a meeting's participants for what they see and do. Relevant authorities' approach to multi-location meetings has to be seen as part of the wider support and commitment to local democracy. The other principles described below need to be considered in light of this.

2.1 Transparency

Formal meetings of relevant authorities will be spaces in which democratic debate and decision-making happen. It is fundamental that these meetings are held in public (subject to the specific exceptions available), and that the public are able to access and engage with them. Relevant authorities will need to think about wider legal requirements around transparency, and accessibility, and what that means for the way that they carry out meetings. These meetings allow public and media involvement as observers whether they are held in person or virtually.

(Local Government Act 1972, s100 et seq., Schedule 12 and 12A and related legislation)

2.2 Accessibility

Democratic systems need to be organised and arranged to account for barriers that members of the public might experience. Multi-location meetings have the potential to enhance and improve access for participants. This will not happen automatically however, and meeting arrangements will need to be specifically designed to help this to happen.

Relevant authorities' meeting arrangements will need to have regard for the protected characteristics under the Equality Act, including ensuring that accessibility is considered in the context of the social model of disability, and for ensuring that the impact of its decisions on democratic arrangements are understood from these perspectives.

(Equality Act 2010)

2.3 Good conduct

In line with the Nolan Principles, multi-location meetings, as with any other public meeting, should demonstrate high standards of conduct.

Multi-location meetings have in many places led to changes in conduct, and an improvement in behaviours. Meeting arrangements can account for the need to entrench more positive behaviours – particularly where these meetings involve a number of people together in a single physical location, where different dynamics may arise.

Relevant authorities will also need to have regard to the Model Code of Conduct (and to local codes of conduct, and standards arrangements) in how they develop their meeting arrangements.

The Local Authorities (Model Code of Conduct) (Wales) Order 2008.2.4 Use of English and Welsh Languages

Adherence to legal requirements relating to the use of the English and Welsh languages is a legal requirement. It is a fundamental element of the obligations attached to public bodies in Wales – separate legislation and guidance exists. In order to maximise accessibility relevant authorities may wish to consider subtitling in English and/or Welsh, and translation into other languages depending on need – for example, BSL.

Arrangements must ensure that English and Welsh are treated equally and support and promote the Welsh Language. The use of the Welsh medium can be provided for in multi-location meetings – and normalised in a wide range of settings – in ways which might historically have proven challenging for physical meetings. Relevant authorities will also need to take account of their individual Welsh language standards.

(Welsh Language (Wales) Measure 2011)

2.5 Local Needs

Local authorities are democratic institutions. Decisions about local democracy – and the best approaches to promote and encourage engagement in local democratic systems – are best made at a local level. Relevant authorities' approaches to meeting arrangements should therefore be aligned with the way that they approach public participation – in particular, their plans for ensuring that they meet their public participation obligations when these obligations become law in May 2022. An understanding of the specific needs of a wide range of local people is a part of this.

(Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021, on public participation).

2.6 Future generations

In agreeing arrangements for meetings, relevant authorities must give regard to the well-being goals and ways of working set out in the Well-being of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015. Many of the improvements which could be brought about by multi-location meetings – innovation around the transaction or meetings, reductions in the use of paper, enhanced public accessibility and so on – will serve the objective of making local democratic systems more sustainable.

However, relevant authorities will still need to ensure that the 2015 Act's principles are actively embedded in arrangements for meetings. Digitisation has the potential to significantly reduce the carbon footprint of local democratic systems, but only where cloud services and server storage is procured from carbon neutral providers – digital services are not carbon neutral by default. The reduction in travel will also add to the reduction in the carbon footprint.

3. CORE REQUIREMENTS

This section sets out the things that relevant authorities must do in relation to multi-location meetings.

These provisions are set out to help ensure legal compliance. In all respects it will be for a relevant authority's Monitoring Officer to determine exactly how the authority will ensure this compliance. The expectation is that relevant authorities will want to use these requirements as a starting point from which to innovate and experiment with different arrangements for facilitating multi-location meetings, in the context of the wider needs of local democracy.

The Act requires that "arrangements" be made by principal councils for both the broadcasting of meetings, and the convening of meetings involving participants in multiple locations. These "meeting arrangements" will need to be written in such a way that integrates a relevant authority's approach to multi-location arrangements to its wider compliance with the legislative framework for formal meetings, including the new requirements for the audio and (in certain circumstances) video broadcasting of such meetings.

Although, there is a requirement for principal councils to broadcast certain meetings which will not commence until May 2022, many principal councils already broadcast a number of their meetings, we therefore suggest that these arrangements form an integrated part of an authority's Constitution. For principal councils such arrangements might be subject to oversight from the Democratic Services Committee.

The reason for integrating these arrangements into a constitutional document is that they set out how the authority is run, and will need to be integrated in some form into the rules of procedure of committees and other formal bodies.

Relevant authorities will need to develop these arrangements for themselves – there is no single set of rules setting out what arrangements should look like in detail. This guidance sets out a framework within which relevant authorities can explore their options and decide what is right for them and the communities they serve.

4. PRACTICAL CONSIDERATIONS

This section sets out things to which relevant authorities must give regard, but which do not form part of the legislative framework.

Welsh Government considers these considerations to be matters of good practice. Some specific solutions are suggested but relevant authorities should consider local circumstances in deciding what approaches are ultimately adopted, in a process which should be led by those involved in participating in meetings, and supporting those meetings' operation – always informed by the needs and expectations of the public. While meeting arrangements should fit local preferences and circumstances, there should be a clear process for considering the issues highlighted below. For local authorities The Democratic Services Committee is expected to lead this process.

Sitting alongside the core requirements of the "meeting arrangements" – the legally mandated arrangements that relevant authorities must make for multi-location meetings – can be a wider multi-location meetings policy, which will also reflect the general principles in section 2 while setting out more detailed procedures to ensure that multi-location meetings work efficiently, effectively and accountably. Keeping such a policy distinct from the legal "meeting arrangements" is important because it will make it clear to those involved where processes are put in place because of legal requirements, and where local decisions have been made about the operation of multi-location meetings.

Relevant authorities can take whatever process they choose in designing and adopting this policy, but those responsible for leadership on governance matters, and participants in multi-location meetings, will need to be satisfied that these arrangements take into account the general principles we set out in section 2. In particular, the meetings policy will be the document to refer to the role of the public in the operation of formal meetings, and to ensure that their needs and expectations are understood and treated as paramount.

Because of the public-facing nature of this work relevant authorities may consider it necessary to adopt a provisional policy, and for those within that authority and outside it (in particular, the public) to develop and refine it over time. Reviewing the policy (and of the meeting arrangements themselves) as they operate will offer the best opportunity to reflect and refine.

Where a relevant authority determines that they wish to draft such a policy it should be led by a committee of the authority with a responsibility for governance, supported by a relevant officer. This might be that authority's Monitoring Officer. Where the authority is a principal council, the decision would be made by the cabinet and the officer taking leadership might properly be the Head of Democratic Services.

The exact contents of a policy will be agreed at local level. The experience of relevant authorities in the past however suggests that it should include:

- How to decide which meetings will have physical provision made for them, and which will be conducted wholly through remote means. (section 4.1);
- Which online meeting platform or platforms which will be used (section 4.2);
- How formal notices will be issued, and the publication of agendas and minutes (section 4.3);
- How exempt matters will be dealt with (section 4.3);
- Meeting attendance, including deciding where a member is "present" (section 4.4);
- How participants who sit as part of committees or bodies subject to the Act will be able to access and participate in the meeting (including support and advice on technology, behavioural and conduct issues) (section 4.5);
- How observers (including the public and the press) will be able to access the meeting, and how they may actively participate in the meeting where needed (4.6);
- Facilitating broadcast by members of the public (4.7). Broadcast by the authority itself may also be required, and is covered by separate guidance.
- Chairing of meetings (4.8)
- The taking of votes (4.9);
- Training and peer support to ensure that participants are able to take part (4.10)

It is important to ensure that participants and observers have access to easy to understand information which explains how they can and should engage in multi-location meetings – this documentation can be part of the multi-location meetings policy but should also be available separately, and may constitute a simple explanation of some of those arrangements for the casual reader. It is particularly important the relevant authorities highlight and publicise their multi-location meeting arrangements and policy to make it as easy as possible for the public to engage.

4.1 Taking different approaches for different meetings

Some relevant authorities may decide that all meetings will be conducted through remote means by default. Relevant authorities may wish to adopt different approaches for different bodies, and for different circumstances.

In general

A multi-location meetings policy may make provision that different kinds of meeting be convened, by default, with all participants joining through remote means, or with some arrangement being made for people to attend and participate and observe in person. Policies should recognise that the Act requires participants to be able to join meetings through remote means for all formal meetings. It will not be permitted for relevant authorities to decide that all meetings will be held entirely physically.

The needs of local democracy, and the needs of the public in engaging with multi-location meetings, are a paramount consideration in deciding where and when meetings will be convened partially or wholly by remote means. The overriding intention of the Act on this issue is to help the public to be able to access and engage with local democratic systems. The convenience of participants and the efficient operation of relevant authorities themselves is important but the needs of the public will come first when these decisions are being made.

Relevant authorities may want to make particular plans for multi-location meetings where a number of participants are in the same physical space, while others join through remote means. Similarly, provisions might need to be made for allowing people to observe in person, or through remote means, or both.

There is no requirement for each meeting to be held in the same way every time it meets. For example, a council could decide to hold some full council meetings entirely remotely and others as multi-location meetings with a number of councillors (or most councillors) present in a chamber. In determining which meetings may be held wholly through remote meetings and for which physical arrangements might be made available, relevant authorities might consider:

- The general circumstances of participants. Participants' needs and preferences may change over time, and policies should have the flexibility to allow for arrangements to change where this happens. For example, councillors in a local authority may decide that full Council should take place predominantly physically or predominantly through remote means – but in doing so they might ensure that the policy remains flexible enough to change this approach if participants' views change;
- The subject matter, and number of participants attending, certain meetings. This may relate to the general matters usually under discussion at a given committee (or other body) rather than the specific agenda for an individual meeting;
- The need to ensure that meetings are fully accessible to both active participants and to observers. Accessibility may under certain circumstances require physical provision;
- Connected to this, whether physical provision for a public gallery, or for the attendance of certain participants, is necessary if the majority of a meeting's participants are joining through remote means. This is discussed in more detail in section 4.7;

The overriding need is to consider the needs of the public, both as observers and participants.

Relevant authorities may have concerns about equality of access and participation in multi-location meetings where some participants are in the same physical space. On considering the risks and other circumstances they may determine that, by default, meetings can take place either wholly by remote means, or that, where a number of participants express a preference for a meeting being held physically, that support should be given to all participants to attend physically. However it is worth reiterating that relevant authorities will not be able to require that all participants attend physically under these circumstances.

Where a relevant authority decides that physical arrangements will be made for certain meetings or classes of meetings, a multi-location meetings policy will need to determine what those arrangements will be. They may include:

- The availability of a meeting room which is publicly accessible, along with the provision of a physical public gallery (and press gallery);
- Making arrangements for participants who attend physically to be seen by those joining from other locations (a requirement under the Act), which will require planning where multiple participants wish to attend physically and where camera facilities in a room may be less than ideal for this purpose;
- The availability of professional support in the room, or through remote means. This may be IT support or governance/clerking support;
- The streaming of broadcast footage from the meeting to those present through the use of one or more display screens (and the use of audio equipment).

Even where all participants join a meeting from another location a relevant authority may still wish to provide a physical space for members of the public to watch proceedings and to participate. This is covered in section 4.7 below.

Accessibility and involvement

Some participants may wish to join meetings from another location regularly – because they have working or caring responsibilities which make attending meetings in person difficult. Some participants may have a preference for physical meetings. Participants may have personal protected characteristics, or circumstances, which limit their ability to participate online, and/or which requires that certain accommodations be made for physical presence. The same needs are likely to apply to observers. Particular care will be needed to be taken to take account of the needs of one-off participants, especially if they are members of the public rather than employed officers of the authority or regular meeting participants who are (for example) elected councillors.

Multi-location meetings where some or most participants are present in a single location can pose challenges around accessibility and involvement. Those present in a committee room will need to be able to participate on the same footing as those participating in other locations. This may be a difficult where certain participants may be able to hear, but not see, other participants. For these kinds of meetings, there is a risk that those not physically present in a room play less of a part in discussion. These people may end up being “forgotten” by those who are physically present. For a Chair, following the visual cues of those in the same room, and those joining from other locations, is likely to be a challenge. This will need to be thought about, particularly where the Chair themselves is joining a meeting from another location.

4.2 Multi-location meeting platforms

Multi-location meetings require additional technology and this has implications for an authority's capacity to procure and use this technology effectively. Finding and using the right platform is an important part of making meetings accessible and transparent, and the business of relevant authorities more accountable to the public.

This guidance does not recommend any specific product. Relevant authorities have made, and will make, their own arrangements in line with their IT and procurement policies. It may be, for example, that relevant authorities wish to explore joint procurement opportunities. It will be useful for relevant authorities procuring to understand how the market for these products evolved, and the need to keep in touch with other relevant authorities to exchange experiences.

Specifically, any product, or combination of products, should provide:

- The ability for participants to be able to see and hear each other, and the facility for outbound and inbound video and audio to be switched on and off either by a participant themselves or potentially also for a meeting organiser;

- The ability for participants to be named / labelled so that others can easily identify them;
- The ability for participants and observers to be able to join via mobile, or tablet, without losing significant functionality;
- The ability to provide for simultaneous translation. Relevant authorities should ensure that they use a meeting platform which provides for simultaneous translation and that members are comfortable with its use. Principal councils will need to decide whether to broadcast a feed in English, in Welsh, or in both – this is covered in more detail in separate guidance on broadcast;
- The ability to both record and broadcast the meeting and for participants and observers to know when recording and broadcasting is taking place;
- The ability to caption or subtitle, either live (which may be partially or fully automated) or through editing after the meeting has taken place;
- A “chat” facility (the use of which we discuss in section 4.5 below), visible only to meeting participants, and which can be turned off by the meeting organiser if necessary;
- Sufficient security measures to ensure that the meeting cannot be accessed by unauthorised persons, and to ensure that unauthorised persons can be ejected from the meeting where necessary;
- A user interface which is intuitive and easily understood.

Other factors will include:

- Where and how meetings will be broadcast – for example, on the council’s own website or on Facebook Live or YouTube, or in some other way (covered in separate guidance). It is not recommended that principal councils effect the broadcast requirement by granting public access to online meeting platforms themselves. Broadcast arrangements are dealt with in separate guidance, but again, the needs of the public as observers will be especially important;
- Arrangements where joint meetings are held between relevant authorities which, by default, use different platforms;
- Arrangements for when difficulties with technology emerge, or other circumstances might make it impossible to broadcast a meeting (covered in section 4.6);
- Provision for electronic voting.

Relevant authorities may wish to consult participants and observers to ensure that IT arrangements work for them, and that the technology means that multi-location meetings are as accessible as they could be.

4.3 Notices, agendas, reports and providing for exempt matters

Alongside multi-location meetings, relevant authorities will need to continue to issue notice of the convening of meetings, and make arrangements for the publication of agendas and reports, online. There are both issues and opportunities associated with this.

- Transparency around the work programmes of bodies covered by these rules. Agendas and papers are usually expected to be published three clear working days in advance of meetings (and the detail of notice requirements are covered in more detail in the section below), but relevant authorities may wish to consider how the interests of transparency and accessibility can be served by earlier notification of proposed agenda items – through more accessible and visible work programmes and through attention being given to the visibility and accuracy of a schedule of forthcoming decisions (which in the case of a principal council executive will be the Forward Plan);

- Arrangements to ensure that those viewing a broadcast can be easily signposted to the agenda, reports and (in the case of recorded meetings) the minutes, and to any relevant background documentation;

Full detail of notice requirements for meetings (and other formal requirements for the publication of agendas, reports and minutes) can now be found:

- For local authority executives, at the Local Authorities (Executive Arrangements) (Decisions, Documents and Meetings) (Wales) Regulations 2001 as amended by the Local Authorities (Executive Arrangements) (Decisions, Documents and Meetings) (Wales) (Amendment) Regulations 2021;.
- For other meetings of relevant authorities, amendments made to Part 5A and schedule 12 of the Local Government Act 1972.

The principal object of these amendments to the existing legal framework is to remove the requirement for the production of hard copy paperwork relating to formal meetings (except for a couple of specific purposes), and to require relevant authorities to make formal information available electronically, on their website.

The new arrangements can be summarised as follows:

Notice of meetings

- Public notice of all meetings must be published on the relevant authority's website at least three clear days before the meeting (at the time it is convened, if it is convened at shorter notice);
- Notice must include details of how to access the meeting if it is being held by remote means only, and the place in which the meeting is held if it is partly or wholly taking place physically;
- Notice requirements also apply where a formal meeting is taking place which is not open to the public. Here, notification is required of the time of the meeting, the fact that it is being held by remote means, and that it is not open to the public.

Usually notice of meetings would be provided on an authority's website; relevant authorities may also make arrangements for notifications to be sent to members, and interested people via subscription, automatically on the uploading of agenda papers. Authorities may also make use of social media to highlight the publication of notice (although notification on social media will not constitute notice for the purposes of the Regulations).

Agendas and reports

- The agenda and reports for public meetings (including late reports) must be published on the website of the authority;
- Paper agendas do need to be made available to members of the public attending meetings held partly physically;
- For principal councils only; recording of decisions by the executive collectively or individually, as well as the recording of business carried out in other meetings of principal councils. This requires that the names of who attended the meeting be recorded alongside apologies, declarations of interest and decisions made. This must be published within 7 working days of the meeting taking place. In the interests of clarity this does not require that a member's or members' signatures are required to be recorded (as has been the case previously). The information referred to above must be published on relevant authorities' websites. ;
- Background papers relating to meetings of relevant authorities must now be proactively published on a website, not merely be available (although, exceptionally, if it is impractical to do this, they must be open for public inspection). This is an important change; it involves the automatic placement in the public domain of specified documents which may previously have only been, in practice, published on application. Councils will therefore need to think carefully about how background papers are identified, produced and prepared for publication;

- The transaction of paperless business generally. Multi-location meetings are likely to be paperless. Regulations now specify that formal information relating to meetings be published on an authority' website, with the requirement of hard copy material being on public deposit having been removed;

There may be people who cannot access the information published electronically; principal councils must put in place facilities for members of the public who would not otherwise be able to do so, to access the documents.

Exempt matters

Bodies covered by the legislation will need to be able to consider exempt matters in private. Exempt matters are things which a relevant authority is allowed not to publish because they are confidential. This may be for a range of reasons, which are set out in schedule 12A of the Local Government Act 1972. Agendas with exempt items on the agenda are often divided into a Part I – held in public – and a Part II – held in private.

A separate call on the online platform, separate from the call used for broadcast, should be set up for those participating in a meeting by remote means. This reduces the risk that exempt material may be inadvertently made public through being broadcast. The original, public, call can be left open and can continue to broadcast (with an appropriate slide to notify viewers that the committee or body is in private session), so the Chair and other participants can return to formally close the meeting, or further business. This will allow relevant authorities to make clear to observers what is happening, and why.

Information provided to participants covering exempt matters should be dealt with in the same way as it would be for physical meetings. Bearing in mind that information will now be managed electronically by default under the notice and agenda arrangements highlighted above, relevant authorities may want to ensure that more prominent warnings be placed on exempt material, or whether a different colour can be applied to the background of such material to reflect the fact that, in hard copy, exempt material is usually printed on different colour paper for this reason. In doing so, relevant authorities will need to think about the accessibility needs of participants (around colour contrasts, for example).

Innovation in how agendas and paperwork are produced and presented

The removal of the general requirement to provide information in hard copy by default invites the possibility for more innovation and creativity. This is not innovation for its own sake, but innovation designed to better engage the public in the work of relevant authorities. Local people will be able to follow and track the way that discussions are had, and decisions made, entirely online. The removal of hard copy notices will allow relevant authorities to experiment with the use of technology to make navigating the decision-making process, in particular, easier.

Relevant authorities may wish to consider how information might be made more accessible through creative use of committee content management systems to present information differently – for example, by moving away from the production of “agenda report packs” as a single PDF and towards the use of more accessible files, and file formats, which help both councillors, other meeting participants and members of the public to engage in formal business. This may include thinking about the way that minutes are drafted and presented, providing links to the substantive reports discussed, and also with the relevant section of the recording or broadcast of the meeting.

Hard copy archiving

Relevant authorities should however consider the needs of archiving. It is common practice that councils (and other relevant authorities) retain and bind, or otherwise store for historical purposes, hard copies of the records of formal proceedings of the authority. There is an obligation that formal information be retained for a period of six years although it is considered good practice to do so in perpetuity.

Archiving is likely to be possible and necessary for electronic documentation – agendas, reports, minutes, background papers and other information important for researchers, historians or others to understand how decisions have come to be made. Relevant authorities will need to think about how they build systems to make sure that material produced predominantly, or entirely, electronically will be archived.

4.4 Meeting attendance

Multi-location meetings provide additional challenges in terms of meeting attendance. It is important for the integrity of voting procedures and attendance records that expectations and procedures are clear.

Meeting arrangements and/or the meetings policy should make clear when a participant is considered to be “present”. There are a variety of circumstances in which this might become an issue – for example, in the taking of votes. Meeting arrangements may not engage with the detail of these issues (and others) because not all circumstances can be anticipated in advance. Local determination is important here.

Instead, the Monitoring Officer and/or governance officer in attendance at a meeting should be able to use agreed principles to provide a Chair with consistent advice over whether a participant should or should not be regarded as “present”.

This is particularly important for the taking of votes but is also relevant for participation in meetings more generally. It is likely also to have salience if the need to determine if a member has been present at a meeting is relevant for the purpose of determining whether they have attended a council meeting in the past six months (s85, Local Government Act 1972).

Particular circumstances might include:

- Connection problems. The connection may drop, making it difficult for some participants to follow debate and discussion. It may also disrupt a broadcast feed. A loss of connection may not be immediately apparent to others present. Certain committees or bodies may resolve matters through a general expression of consent rather than a roll call vote, meaning that some participants may lose the opportunity to express disagreement under these circumstances;
- Participants in meetings joining by remote means by video may seek to disable video to stabilise their connection or because they have been temporarily interrupted by events at their location - it may be unclear whether some participants are present or not. Relevant authorities will need to think about whether the requirement to be both seen and heard, for most meetings, allows for brief, temporary interruption like this;
- Where a participant is in the “waiting room” on an online platform. Here, participants will probably not be considered “present” as they cannot be seen and heard by others, cannot see and hear others (other than through a broadcast stream) and can play no active part in the meeting. The same may apply to participants who are only watching the broadcast feed as an observer.

This list is provided as an illustration; individual authorities will need to make the decisions on these points that are right for them, and which they are confident both meet the needs of the law and the needs and expectations of local people in how local democracy is transacted.

Relevant authorities may decide that an officer could check to ensure ongoing presence at a meeting by requiring members to confirm their presence in the meeting chat at the beginning of each substantive item, as we suggested in section 4.5. This could also provide a way to check presence in advance of a vote, as we suggest in section 4.10.

The withdrawal of members with a prejudicial interest

Where a participant has declared a prejudicial interest in an item they will be required to leave the meeting for the duration of the relevant item. The nature of an interest and whether or not it is prejudicial will be for an authority and its Monitoring Officer to decide.

For a physical meeting it is usual practice for a participant declaring such an interest to leave the room entirely while discussion is underway, as the mere act of ongoing presence of that individual could be seen as influencing the authority's action.

Where a participant is joining by remote means, and has declared a prejudicial interest, they should leave or be removed for the duration of consideration of that item. Other participants should however be aware that the participant will be able to observe the broadcast of the meeting while outside. Relevant authorities may seek to include in their policies and meeting arrangements a requirement that participants with prejudicial interests undertake not to observe a broadcast for the reasons set out above, although we note that there is no definitive way to police this requirement and it may be seen as overly restrictive.

Once the matter has been concluded the clerk or support officer to the committee should immediately notify the relevant participant so that they can re-join the meeting, and the meeting should not continue until they have re-joined (otherwise they should be marked as not present for any further items).

4.5 Support during meetings

Support and advice will usually need to be provided to the participants of multi-location meetings, usually relating to matters of procedure. Participants (especially the Chair of the meeting) will need to find an appropriate way to seek and obtain this advice to ensure the smooth running of the meeting.

Online platforms used by relevant authorities to convene multi-location meetings will usually have a chat function. The chat function will provide a useful way for advice to be shared and the business of the meeting to be managed, but its use can be open to misunderstanding.

Meeting policies should explain how this function will be used. Some relevant authorities may think it sensible to ban use of the chat function outright, either in all meetings or in some, specified, meetings.

Pros of chat functions

- Allows advice to be given by governance officers without disrupting the meeting;
- Allows the Chair to “cue up” and acknowledge requests by committee members to contribute without disrupting the flow of questioning;
- Allows members to generally express assent or agreement with another participant, or with a proposal to resolve a given issue, in a manner which gives the Chair confidence to proceed (although the fact that consent has been given in this way would need to be verbally acknowledged by the Chair in the interests of transparency);

- Allows the Chair or clerk to check whether a particular member is still “present”, as we outline in section 4.10

Cons of chat functions

- Can be seen as undermining the transparency of the meeting;
- Can risk participants becoming distracted;
- Risk that participants use the chat for personal communication, and that this communication becomes inadvertently visible to other participants and to the public;
- Risk that chat will involve conversation about the matters under discussion without that discussion being visible to others, or recorded properly. Multi-location meetings policies may need to decide on the status of material recorded in the chat, and whether it can be used by the clerk to assist in the preparation of minutes;
- Risk that the chat becomes a place for general chit-chat or political needling.

The chat function will usually need to be limited to participants and the governance officer – but participants should treat conversations in chat as if they are happening in public.

Participants may decide to use WhatsApp or other messaging platforms to communicate over the course of the meeting. These platforms are not in the control of the authority; care should be taken in how they are used. For example, in the case of principal councils, if used within a political group, certain uses of WhatsApp could be seen as coming into conflict with the ban on the use of political management (whipping) at scrutiny committees.

Officer support arrangements

Different meetings will require different kinds of support from governance officers, and others. In the short term, as relevant authorities adopt to multi-location meetings (and, in particular, adapt to meetings where some may join through remote means and some physically) it may be necessary to think about the need for additional support. In due course, familiarity and confidence with new systems (and training and development for both officers and participants) will reduce this need.

Multi-location meeting policies will need to specify the kind, and level, of support necessary for specific meetings, and the circumstances where support can be provided by remote means and where officers might need to be physically present.

4.6 Supporting participants to be able to take an active part in the meeting

Meetings viewed live and available to view later maybe watched by a large audience and carefully scrutinised by the public including via social media. It is important that these meetings demonstrate good governance and high standards of conduct.

Meeting policies will need to take account of the need for good conduct and high standards of behaviour. These policies will need to be drafted to closely align with other constitutional provisions on these matters, such as the Code of Conduct.

Principles of good conduct apply to meetings of any kind. However, there will be some issues that are especially relevant for multi-location meetings.

The issues below are especially important:

- People being clear about their roles and the roles that others are playing, either as participants or observers. We cover more on this in the section below;

- Recognising that meeting remotely (and where some, but not all, participants are remote attendees) requires a different approach to the agenda and to behaviour than a meeting in person;
- The need to think carefully about – and plan for – how everyone involved in the meeting will be able to actively contribute;
- Having a clear focus on the actual outcome of the meeting.

Participants are likely to understand that formal meetings can often be “performative” – people in a formal meeting behave differently from the way that they would otherwise behave, even if there is no audience. People’s physical presence in the same space has a significant impact on behaviour. Behaviour which might seem normal when everyone is in the council chamber – heckling, applause, the raising of points of order and so on – may feel odd and unusual when all or most people are joining through remote means. Participants in multi-location meetings during 2020 have talked about the “atmosphere” of multi-location meetings being different.

Behaviours in different types of meetings are likely to differ. Decision-making committees will look and feel different to audit or oversight committees, which will feel different from a principal council’s planning and licensing committees. Understanding these differing behaviours will help to inform how multi-location meeting policies are developed, and how they connect to policies around conduct and standards.

This is not just about conduct and behaviour in the narrow sense of the word, but about a shift in mindset about how much work it is possible to do in a multi-location meeting, and how multi-location meetings might help us to plan and carry out work differently.

Research carried out by the Centre for Governance and Scrutiny in 2020, and further evidence carried out in preparation for the production of this guidance, highlights the need for a shift in mindset associated with meetings where people join from multiple locations.

- It may be necessary to plan to do less. Meetings where some or all participants join through remote means can run as smoothly as in-person meetings but even after a year of all-remote operation, not everyone is equally familiar with and comfortable with what remains a new way of working. Planning work programmes accordingly will be important;
- Invest in preparation. Later in this guidance we highlight how Chairs may need to carry out planning to understand better what other participants might want to get out of a meeting. This is probably a good habit for all meetings, but will be especially relevant for multi-location ones;

Behaviour, and expectations, around meetings and how business is carried out in those meetings is crucially important in making those meetings effective. Participants in multi-location meetings and others involved in managing and supporting these meetings will have become adept at organising such meetings during the pandemic. The drafting of meeting arrangements and policies provides an opportunity to reflect on how an understanding of behavioural factors needs to be woven into these systems as they reach maturity.

Positive behaviours are also about confidence, which will come from participants being properly supported to play an active and productive role in the meetings in which they are due to take part. Relevant authorities will already have a sense of the support needs of meeting participants, but establishing permanent arrangements for multi-location meetings provides an opportunity to revisit those existing assumptions.

Some of the relevant issues are listed below. These are reproduced, in an amended form, from WLGA guidance issued in early 2020.

- Ensuring that participants have access to appropriate equipment. As a default a desktop PC or laptop with access to a stable broadband connection will be the best way to engage. Participants will need a camera (if they don't have a laptop with an integrated camera) and ideally should use headphones to avoid background noise. Relevant authorities should provide participants who are members of the authority with appropriate equipment if they do not have access to it;
- Ensuring that participants can troubleshoot basic technical problems before or during a meeting – ensuring that they know how to mute and unmute themselves, to activate and disable video, to check their internet connection and so on. There may also be a need to ensure that ICT staff or others are on hand to deal with more serious technical issues;
- Ensuring that participants know how to use the raise, and lower, hand feature, as well as etiquette around muting and unmuting when speaking – the “raise hand” feature may not be usable for those joining on mobile or on a tablet and alternatives may therefore need to be available;
- Use of the chat function, WhatsApp or other messaging platforms. This is covered in more detail in section 4.5;
- Ensuring that names displayed are consistent and accurate, with the role of the individual clearly identified: e.g. “Cllr John Williams – Committee Member” instead of “John’s iPhone” or “jw10881”;
- Ensuring that equipment being used has enough charge or is plugged into the mains;
- Ensuring that participants can view papers easily (we discussed the preparation and presentation of paperwork in more detail in section 4.3); this may include (for example) advice being given to participants on the window snapping function on a Windows device: <https://support.microsoft.com/en-us/windows/snap-your-windows-885a9b1e-a983-a3b1-16cd-c531795e6241>
- The need for participants to check the environment around them before joining a meeting – checking lighting (recognising the daytime lighting conditions may change over the course of a meeting), background (ensuring that backgrounds are relatively neutral and do not involve the inadvertent display of personal information – the council may provide a corporate background or participants may choose to blur their background) and any visual distractions or noise, with mobiles and onscreen notifications set to silent;
- The need to check personal appearance – formal attire is probably not required but members should probably wear the kind of clothing they would wear if physically present at a meeting;
- Arrangements for preparation – joining the meeting fifteen minutes before it is due to start and checking audio and video arrangements;
- Participants assuming that, for a meeting that is planned to be broadcast, the meeting is being recorded and broadcast for the total time they are on the call.

4.7 Supporting observers (including the public) to access and participate in the meeting

While the potential for bigger audiences provides new opportunities for participation, multi-location meetings must ensure arrangements are made for the public to participate via questions and presentations, for example. The presentation of multi-location meetings should also take into account public presence as an audience in new ways.

The broadcast of meetings will make them more accessible generally – but councils will still need to think of the needs of both observers and participants.

This may include:

- The physical layout of rooms, which will be affected by the requirements around visibility of those joining through remote means;
- How participants joining through remote means will be displayed on a screen or screens in a physical location.

Ensuring that observers (including the public) feel welcome

Councils have found over the course of 2020 that the universal use of multi-location meetings has resulted in a significant increase in the number of people viewing meetings.

Generally speaking meetings of relevant authorities will be meetings taking place in public rather than “public meetings”. Members of the public will not have an automatic right to address committees or other bodies – although provision may be made in the constitution for them to do so, in which case observers can become participants.

There will be instances where those people who would otherwise be observers will need to join a meeting as an active participant. This may include:

- Those presenting petitions or deputations;
- Those asking public questions;
- People giving evidence (for example, to scrutiny committees);
- Applicants on regulatory matters (planning and licensing);
- Parties to quasi-judicial matters.

Where individuals are members of the public the Chair or an officer will need to make arrangements to ensure that they can join to participate – and that they are supported in doing so.

Meeting policies may need to make particular provision for this.

Making sure that members of the public feel supported when participating through remote means

At a physical meeting, an officer might have an opportunity to speak quietly to a person beforehand to allay any nerves, and to ensure that a person is satisfied with the experience after they have contributed. In a multi-location meeting these “soft” opportunities for conversation and reassurance may not naturally exist. Individuals may find themselves, joining from their own home, on a public call with fifty strangers, being expected to contribute coherently, and then removed from the call without ceremony when the item reaches its conclusion. Clearly, is not ideal. Relevant authorities may wish to explore how members of the public joining meetings in this way can be best supported.

Formal meetings which are also public meetings

It is common for some types of authorities to convene formal meetings which are designed to actively involve the public in proceedings.

These meetings might legally be formal meetings but they may have a different character and atmosphere. Relevant authorities should not avoid holding these kinds of meetings because they think that managing them as multi-location meetings will be complex. This also goes for meetings held in places in the community other than an authority’s normal premises, where the presence of technology for broadcast and display may not be immediately present.

Meeting arrangements may make particular reference to and provision for these kinds of meetings.

Providing for protest and dissent

Relevant authorities may also need to consider how opportunities for public protest and dissent might be provided for in multi-location meetings.

Protest can be inconvenient (and disruptive), but it also reflects a vital public right. Where relevant authorities propose to carry out business by way of multi-location meetings as the norm, and particularly where little to no business for certain bodies may be carried out in person, this feature of the local democratic landscape could be at risk; meeting arrangements should take account of this factor. It will not be appropriate for an authority to decide that it will convene a meeting entirely remotely (with no business being carried out in person) if the principal reason for doing so is because it will eliminate the risk of embarrassment to the authority of a visible, public protest in the vicinity of the meeting.

It is, however, proper for a council to decide that it will convene all meetings so that they can only be accessed through remote means, as long as the accessibility and equality implications of this decision are understood, and as long as the discretion of the authority to make exceptions to these arrangements in particular cases is not fettered.

We noted in section 4.1 the need to make physical arrangements for certain meetings, even those where most participants may be joining through remote means. This may also provide the opportunity for public protest, which could take place in a public gallery, and made visible to those participating through remote means.

This would allow for a protest to be streamed into a meeting otherwise taking place in multiple locations, and could ensure that people protesting in this way feel that their voice has been heard.

4.8 Supporting broadcast by members of the public

Members of the public or the press may wish to film for immediate or future broadcast some or all of a meeting.

In the case of multi-location meetings where most or all participants are in the same location, this may involve the separate recording of a broadcast stream for editing and broadcast later.

For meetings where some or all participants attend physically – with physical arrangements made for observers - members of the public and members of the press may wish to use their own equipment for recording and broadcast.

Relevant authorities may wish to engage with the local press, and to invite views from the public, as to how their meeting arrangements and policies should take account of the requirement to provide access for this purpose. The way that this works is likely to be different from how councils may have supported this activity when meetings were “all-physical”. This may involve:

- Ensuring that the layout of a room is designed to support video recording (by providing a space from which people might film proceedings without visual obstruction, for example);
- Ensuring that amplification arrangements in a committee room allow proceedings to be adequately recorded by an external microphone, or providing a way for members of the public carrying out recording to take the broadcast audio feed, where relevant;
- Arrangements for shots of the room which include members of the public and others in the audience. Committee meetings occur in public and those attending do not have an automatic expectation of privacy or the right to object to recording, but there may be circumstances in which councils want to think about how they will ensure that those carrying out recording are focusing on the formal proceedings;

- Arrangements for video and audio recording of the recorder’s own narrative and of two-way interviews with participants within the committee room; members of the press in particular may want to film interviews, pieces to camera and establishing shots of the space in which the meeting takes place, and arrangements should be in place to support this before and after the meeting, and to ensure that those attending are aware that this may be happening.

This is not an exhaustive list.

4.9 Chairing meetings

Chairing a multi-location meeting is very different to chairing a face-to-face meeting. Chairs will need to be supported to carry out their role in specific ways. The job of the Chair will be a particular challenge where a meeting is being carried out in a physical space with only some participants joining through remote means.

The following general principles for chairing meetings in this context are reproduced and amended, from WLGA guidance issued in spring 2020, and incorporate guidance produced by the Centre for Governance and Scrutiny for both English and Welsh councils at the same time.

Chairs have a particular responsibility to prepare for the meeting, probably in a more planned and directed way than might be necessary for a physical meeting. This may involve the Chair consulting with officers, and other committee members, to determine:

- What the meeting is about, and the possible purpose and outcomes for every item on that meeting’s agenda;
- What information and paperwork will need to be made available in order for these outcomes to be delivered;
- Where councillors or other meeting participants will want to contribute – and where and how public participation might need to be facilitated;
- Where these people might need particular support in order to participate in the way that they want.

Chairs will also need to engage with all participants (which may include external witnesses and members of the public or others with a role to play) to ensure that their role and means of involvement are well understood. This is covered in more detail in section 4.7.

Chairs should:

- Think about the accessibility of the meeting to the public, and whether there are any things they can do that will ensure that public observers are welcomed and that business is explained in a way that is understandable, including the operation of the multi-location meeting itself;
- Ensure that they are prepared for the meeting in a logistical sense by being aware of which members and other participants may be joining by remote means. If the Chair themselves is joining by remote means while some other participants are present in a committee room particular steps will need to be taken to prepare, which are set out in section 4.1;
- Ensure before the start of the meeting that everyone is able to access the meeting, and that everyone is able to both see and hear each other (where the law requires it for specific meetings) or hear each other (for other formal meetings);
- Provide a reminder of meeting arrangements and policies, particularly relating to conduct and behaviour, including some of the material set out in section 4.6 above. This may (depending on the meeting) involve advice on voting arrangements;

- At the beginning of the meeting, introduce themselves, the committee, officers present and other participants to ensure that those watching or listening to a broadcast are aware who is who;
- To avoid people speaking over each other or long silences, ask each member in turn for their contribution to an item, based on an understanding of what members wish to contribute (as we explore further in section 4.6)
- Check occasionally through the meeting that no one has been ‘lost’ due to technical issues, and provide support to councillors experiencing challenges – in this Chairs may need the support of support officers
- Pay more attention than usual to framing the meeting with reminders of the purpose of each agenda item and summarising decisions and actions for each item and again at the end of the meeting.
- Check at the end of each agenda item that all members are content that they have been able to contribute, and ensure that agreed voting arrangements are followed where relevant.

The “balance” between individuals in a room, and those joining by remote means, will have a significant effect on how business will be transacted. This links back to the points we made in the earlier section on conduct and behaviour. Chairs and their support officers are likely to need to know ahead of time which members to attend physically and which may join by remote means. For meetings with a mix of arrangements – particularly if the Chair themselves will be joining by remote means – planning is likely to be necessary. This may include:

- Understanding the motivations and objectives of individual participants on specific agendas items, and having a sense of what they may want to say and ask;
- Identifying how a support officer or other member may bring their attention to a member wishing to make a comment through remote means or in the committee room (it will otherwise be challenging for a Chair to maintain awareness of those in the room as well as those joining remotely);
- Planning debate to be themed or otherwise structured rather than inviting comments generally, to ensure that all participants have an opportunity to contribute;
- Briefing witnesses on expectations;
- Ensuring that reports reflect the above sets of circumstances.

This kind of planning will benefit any meeting, not just those with a mix of in-person and remote attendance.

4.10 The taking of votes

Multi-location meetings provide additional challenges in terms of capturing votes. Chosen options will depend on the chosen platform and local preferences.

Participants in a formal meeting may decide to do something through general consent, or through a recorded vote. Immediately before the vote the Chair will need to determine that all members of the body continue to be “present”, as we set out in section 4.4.

There are a number of different options when it comes to recording votes:

- A verbal roll call of those participants entitled to vote (“voters”). Particularly for full Councils, this process has been found to be the most rigorous but can be very time consuming, especially if amendments to motions are put to the vote;
- Using the ‘raise hand’ function, although this is subject to misinterpretation and human error;
- Responses via the chat;
- Dedicated voting software incorporated into the platform.

The authority will want to ensure that:

- All voters have the same opportunity to vote;
- All voters vote through the same process. In some council chambers, facilities for the taking and recording of votes may be present, but those joining through remote means may not be able to participate in the use of this in-situ technology. Relevant authorities with this technology will need to think carefully about whether, and how, such facilities might extend into the remote space, or how systems used for remote voting might extend into the physical space;
- A suitable record of the vote is captured by the appropriate officer and is confirmed in a way that is understandable to those observing the meeting.

Bodies reaching resolutions without a vote

It is common that committees or other bodies may resolve to take certain action without a vote being recorded. In person, the Chair is able to get a sense of whether consensus exists by looking around the room. Those present have the opportunity to object and to press for a vote, depending on the authority's standing orders.

Where participants are joining through remote means (and particularly where some members join through remote means and some are present physically) the Chair will need to special care to ensure that consent is present to move on without a vote.

4.11 Training, peer support and good practice sharing

The arrangements for multi-location meetings are new and will continue to evolve. This makes it particularly important to ensure that councillors and officer have access to good quality training, peer support and good practice sharing.

Those participating in multi-location meetings and those expecting to participate should be offered initial, and top-up, training, development and support to ensure an understanding of these issues. This is not the same as training to support the technical use of ICT equipment.

Overview

Background

1. Arrangements were first made to progress “remote meetings” in the Local Government (Wales) Measure 2011, however this required at least 30% of the attendees to be in attendance in person and was rarely used. At the outset of the coronavirus pandemic in March 2020, the Welsh Government introduced the Local Authorities (Coronavirus) (Meetings) (Wales) Regulations 2020 which established a framework for Councils to convene remote meetings for all attendees throughout 2020 and part of 2021.
2. With the implementation of “The Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021 the Welsh Government has provided Councils the power and freedom to convene multi-location meetings which will enable greater accessibility and public participation in local government decision making.

Legal Requirements

3. Under the Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021 (‘the 2021 Act’), Part 3, Chapter 4, local authorities are required to:
 - a. Broadcast full Council meetings (with effect from May 2022).
 - b. Make and publish arrangements to ensure that all Council, Committee and Cabinet meetings may be attended remotely (i.e. enabling persons who are not in the same place to attend the meeting) – also referred to as ‘multi-location meetings’.
 - Meetings must be capable of being held virtually, but each authority must decide whether their meetings will be held fully virtually, partially virtually (where some participants are in the same physical location, whilst others join the meeting virtually, also referred to as ‘hybrid meetings’) or as physical meetings (although authorities may not mandate physical attendance at meetings).
 - Meeting participants must be able to speak to and hear each other; and for meetings which are required to be broadcast (i.e.. full Council meetings), participants must also be able to see and be seen by each other.
 - These requirements took effect from May 2021, when the temporary provisions for remote attendance at meetings made under the Coronavirus Meeting Regulations 2020 ended.
 - c. Publish all meeting documents on the Council’s website, including notices, summonses, agendas, reports and background papers (with effect from May 2021).
 - A note of the meeting, including Members in attendance and decisions made, must be published within 7 working days of the meeting.

- Notice of meetings is no longer required to be posted at the Council's offices. However, copies of agendas and reports must be made available for the public if meetings are held physically.
 - The Council is also required to make public access provision for members of the public who cannot access electronic documents, for example, by providing access to computers, copies of documents, or making documents available for inspection.
4. When considering arrangements for remote attendance or 'multi-location meetings', authorities must have regard to the statutory guidance issued by the Welsh Ministers: Interim statutory guidance on multi-location meetings \(gov.wales\)
 5. Section 2 of the statutory guidance sets out a number of general principles to guide authorities when developing their meeting arrangements, namely, transparency, accessibility, good conduct, Welsh language, local needs and future generations. This sets the framework within which authorities must consider options and decide the meeting arrangements which best suit the authority and the communities it serves.
 6. The guidance also confirms that the meeting arrangements should be reflected in the procedure rules set out in the constitution.

Policy on Multi-Location Meetings

7. Alongside the legally mandated arrangements that authorities must make for multi-location meetings, the statutory guidance says that authorities should develop a wider policy setting out the detailed systems chosen by the authority for the operation of its multi-location meetings.
8. This policy is intended to clarify the arrangements of Multi-Locations meetings for:
 - Participants in meetings convened by the Council;
 - Officers providing support to formal meetings
 - Officers with adjacent responsibilities – for example, those responsible for drafting and clearing reports, attending meetings to present reports to members and officers with supervisory responsibilities on governance matters;
 - Anyone with an interest in the way in which the business of these authorities is conducted

Local Authority Meetings

9. Formal meetings of the Council or its committees are convened in accordance with the relevant legislative requirements for those meetings. These meetings are usually held to make formal decisions and are often held in public. Notice of these meetings is published in advance on the Council's website and includes information about the location, timing and business to be conducted. Previously these meetings would have been held with all participants being in physical attendance at a single venue.

What are Multi-Location Meetings?

10. Multi-location meetings which may have been described previously as “remote” or “hybrid” meetings are meetings of the Council or its committees whose participants are not all in the same physical place. This may include:
 - all participants are in the same physical location except one individual who joins from another location, with a physical public gallery being provided;
 - a roughly equal number of members are present in a physical space with those joining through remote means;
 - all members are joining through remote means but nonetheless a physical public gallery has been made available in a Council venue
 - a meeting taking place wholly through remote means where no physical arrangements have been made.
11. Multi-location meetings offer this Council an opportunity to raise its profile in the community and to bring their work directly into people’s homes. Evidence from the remote meetings held during the pandemic shows that public access to multi-location meetings is likely to be significantly higher than the level of audiences of formal meetings when all meetings were held physically in a single location.

Participation at a meeting

12. A “participant” of a multi-location meeting is defined in the statutory guidance as a person who takes an active part in that meeting. They might be an Elected Member, a person giving evidence to a committee as a witness, an appellant or claimant on a regulatory matter, someone presenting a petition, or taking part formally in another way.

Observing a meeting

13. An “observer” of a multi-location meeting is defined in the statutory guidance as a member of an audience, or otherwise spectating, a multi-location meeting. They might be in the same room that a meeting is taking place or they might be observing by remote means.

The benefits of multi-location meetings

14. Cardiff Council has been convening its meetings by remote means throughout much of 2020 and 2021. While meeting this way has proven to be initially challenging, it has also resulted in a number of benefits”
 - Enhancing and supporting local democracy by demonstrating this Council conducting its business;
 - Making it easier for the public to observe multi-location meetings.
 - Enabling external participants to actively engage at meetings to provide a greater range of views and to enhance decision making.
 - Making the Council more resilient and sustainable. The Wellbeing of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015 requires relevant authorities to think about, and act on, long term needs in the way that policy is developed and made. Multi-location meetings reduce the carbon footprint of physical meetings (although digital activity is not of course carbon-neutral). They can also help relevant authorities to reduce the risk of future unexpected events – such as extreme weather – which could in future present a challenge to in-person meetings.

- Reducing the need for travel. Significant time and cost savings for councillors, officers and other participants have arisen particularly for joint bodies.
- It is easier for participants to take part if they have professional and caring commitments.
- Better support for members from diverse backgrounds, by multi-location meetings making it easier for care providers, or disabled people, or people with other protected characteristics, to engage on an equal footing;
- Better behaviours. Although experiences have been mixed, on the whole meeting management and the behaviours of participants have both improved, with less heckling taking place at meetings.

The challenges of multi-location meetings

15. There have been a number of significant challenges which need to be addressed to support multi-location meetings which include:
 - Suitable technology – before 2020, there was little or no technology other than basic video conferencing and webcasting. The rapid development of remote working technology during the coronavirus pandemic made basic remote meetings possible. The complexity of equipment and software necessary to deliver public multi-location meetings requires a significant further step-change in technology.
 - Reliance on the internet – Participants involved in remote meetings are reliant on having a suitable internet connection to join and maintain their presence in this type of meeting.
 - Cultural change – significant progress was made by the authority its Elected Members and public participants in adapting to remote meetings during the coronavirus pandemic. The development for multi-location meetings provides a significant cultural challenge from the existing processes for all those involved in the decision-making processes of the Council.
 - Accessibility and Security – the wide scale accessibility requirements of multi-location meetings facilities also needs to address the security of information and of meetings particularly when meetings can be recorded and broadcast.
 - Involvement and participation – The level of interest in local government decision-making is low and usually limited to those issues which have a specific personal impact. Whilst the pandemic provided an opportunity to increase the level of observers at meetings it is uncertain whether this will continue as the pandemic eases. Encouraging the public to become involved in the wider decision-making issues facing the Council will be an ongoing challenge.

The Meeting Environment in Cardiff

Physical Venues

16. Currently, the Council has a number of venues for its formal meetings with Committee Room 4 in County Hall having a limited multi-location meeting capability. The implementation of the Council's new conferencing system will address the existing limitations in Committee Room 4 and provide three venues with the ability to fully support multi-location meetings:

- Council Chamber - City Hall
- Council Chamber - County Hall
- Committee Room 4 - County Hall

The Technological Requirements

17. The delivery of multi-location meetings requires the provision of equipment and facilities to be able those involved to participate or observe meetings as identified below:

Control Systems

18. Any multi-location meetings will be facilitated by Democratic Services Officers who will use the control systems to ensure that the full range of meeting facilities and functionality can be co-ordinated and integrated for all participants and observers to deliver effective meeting support. The control systems will provide and co-ordinate cameras, audio inputs and outputs, simultaneous translation, speaker queues, electronic voting, integration with the Council webcasting provider and to support participants and observers.

19. The following ICT equipment is required:

Physical Participants and Observers

- Microphones to enable other participants and observers to hear the meeting proceedings, initiate a request to speak, support electronic voting and enable access to simultaneous translation facilities
- Appropriate cameras to show other participants and observers when the individual speaking
- Display screens to enable those physically participating/observing to see those attending remotely.
- Simultaneous translation equipment
- Audio enhancement and hard of hearing support.

Remote Participants

- A suitable ICT device with camera and microphone facilities
- Suitable access to the internet.
- Relevant software provided by the Council to support remote attendance at meetings.

Remote Observers

- A suitable ICT device with an audio output and ideally a visual display
- Internet access to view the Council's webcasting website. Home - Cardiff Council Webcasting \(public-i.tv\)

20. The rapidly evolution and improvement of technological development in software, equipment and the provision of appropriate security measures require regular review to ensure the ease of provision and accessibility. This will need to be budgeted for as part of the cost of democracy.

Determining the type of Meeting

21. The Welsh Government guidance identifies that the needs of local democracy, and the needs of the public in engaging with multi-location meetings, are a paramount consideration in deciding where and when meetings will be convened partially or wholly by remote means. The overriding intention of the Act is to help the public to be able to access and engage with local democratic systems. The convenience of participants and the efficient operation of relevant authorities themselves is important but the needs of the public will come first when these decisions are being made.
22. In addition to Council and Cabinet meetings the Council has 23 committees and sub-committees which support its statutory, regulatory and governance arrangements. There are also two joint committees which are formed by a number of other Local Authorities and which are administered by Cardiff Council.
23. Physical meetings should not be seen as representing the “gold standard” with multi-location meetings being second best. Physical meetings may be convenient and effective for those most familiar with and comfortable with how they work – but they may also be inaccessible and impractical to many.

Predominantly Remote Meetings

24. The Glamorgan Archive and the Prosiect Gwyrdd Joint Committees have representatives from up to five other Local Authorities across South Wales. Given the challenges of travelling significant distances across the region and the need to ensure maximum participation, these meetings will primarily be held as fully remote meetings.
25. This does not preclude participants meeting physically either in a venue in their own local authority area, where the local authority has several representatives or at a mutually agreed location for a number of participants from differing local authorities where this is seen as beneficial for those participants or the decision-making process.

Multi-location meetings

26. All meetings must be able to operate as multi-location meetings to ensure that participants, as defined above are able to attend remotely:

- Council
- Cabinet
- Constitution Committee
- Corporate Parenting Advisory Committee
- Democratic Services Committee
- Governance and Audit Committee
- Local Authority Governor Panel
- Pensions Committee
- Standards & Ethics Committee
- Children and Young People Scrutiny Committee
- Community & Adult Services Scrutiny Committee
- Economy & Culture Scrutiny Committee

- Environmental Scrutiny Committee
- Policy Review and Performance Scrutiny Committee
- Licensing Committee
- Planning Committee
- Public Protection Committee

27. Experience has identified that some meetings such as Public Protection Sub-Committee may be better suited to having a higher level of physical attendance. The following are considered to be those multi-location meetings where additional flexibility is needed due to the sensitive nature of these meetings and how they could potentially impact the livelihoods of those participants other than the Council representatives in attendance. However, this does not preclude some or all participants attending these meetings remotely if they wish or if there are overriding reasons for doing so. These include:

- Appointments Committees
- Council Appeals Committee
- Employment Conditions Committee
- Licensing Sub Committee
- Public Protection Sub Committee
- Standard and Ethics Sub Committee (Hearings Panel)

Establishing the Calendar of Meetings

28. To provide clarity and transparency for participants and observers of council meetings a programme of meeting is developed annually which identifies when, where and how each of the Council's meetings will be held. This is subject to change during the year for operational reasons+.
29. The programme of meetings will avoid wherever possible scheduling meetings being held simultaneously. If this cannot be avoided the relevant Chairs will be consulted and one of the meetings will be undertaken as a fully remote meeting.

The Survey of Meeting Timings

30. After each local election each committee or decision-making body has the opportunity to determine the most suitable day and time for their meetings to take place. This is also an opportunity for a committee to collectively agree the number of their meetings which are to be held predominantly physically or predominantly remotely during each municipal year. This may be based purely on a percentage of all scheduled meetings or reflect the view that physical attendance for particular topic i.e. Budget meetings which may benefit from a more fluid flow of debate. However, the Council may not mandate that any or all participants attend meetings physically. Meeting participants must be able to attend remotely if they wish to do so.
31. This determination will be reflected in the Council's programme of meetings and published on the Council's website. Where committee meetings are identified as primarily physical in the programme of meetings, this does not prevent committee members from attending meetings remotely.

Attendance at Meetings

Elected Member and Council Officer Participants

32. Invitations to meetings will be provided electronically using Microsoft Outlook or the relevant meeting software. The invitation will provide details of the meeting, its location and timings. It will also include links to enable the participants to join remotely should they wish to do so. On receipt of the invitation participants will be requested to indicate their intentions to attend the meeting physically or remotely to enable any necessary administrative and support arrangements to be put in place by Democratic Services.

Remote Participants

33. Those participants considering attending the meeting remotely should also ensure that they have appropriate internet connectivity to join and maintain their attendance throughout the meeting. When joining remotely from a previously unused location participants are requested to inform Democratic Services and a test meeting will be established to confirm the level of connectivity in readiness for the formal meeting.

34. Detailed Guidance for Participants - Joining Remote Meetings is at Appendix A

Physical Attendance

35. All committee members are encouraged to physically attend at least one meeting of each committee or decision-making body to which they are appointed during each municipal year.

36. On occasions due to physical space, technological issues or specific requirements such as the current need to socially distance in the pandemic, the number the number of physical attendees who may be present at each meeting may be limited. Where this is necessary the Chair of the meeting together with essential officer support for the Chair, multi-location meeting broadcasts and simultaneous translation are given priority for attendance. Consideration will also need to be given to external participants who may also need to attend the physical meeting in order to participate before any remaining spaces are allocated to the political groups in accordance with political balance. The political groups will give priority to any members who have difficulties joining a meeting remotely.

Attendance of other participants

37. Meetings are also attended by a range of participants other than committee members. These include invitees, witnesses, officers providing technical or other support, external experts and members of the public asking questions in accordance with the Council Procedure rules.

38. Once the need for additional participants including members of the public (where appropriate) is identified by service area or support officers, they will inform Democratic Services of the details and contact information of the participant. The external participants will be contacted by Democratic Services to confirm their attendance, explain how they can join the meeting either as a physical or remote participant and the meeting procedures. If the external participant is joining the meeting remotely an electronic meeting invitation similar to that of other participants will be sent. They will also be offered the opportunity of a test meeting to provide an element of confidence in the technology and the arrangements that are in place.

39. Detailed Guidance for Public Participants at Meetings is at Appendix B (to be developed).

Recording and broadcasting of meetings by observers

40. Members of the public are permitted to film or record Councillors and officers at any Council meetings that are open to the public and press, subject to compliance with the Council's Access to Information Procedure Rules, Rule 4A which is summarised as followed:

- The recording or transmission must create no disturbance disruption or distraction to the good order and conduct of the meeting;
- Any recording must be overt, not covert;
- There is to be no recording or transmission of proceedings dealing with any exempt or confidential information;
- The Chair shall have discretion, subject to proper consideration of any relevant representations and legal advice, to prohibit a recording or exclude anyone reasonably considered to be in breach of these rules; and
- The person making the recording or transmission shall be solely responsible for complying with all applicable legal obligations arising from their actions

41. The Council also permits photography and social media reporting of all its public meetings.

Record of Attendance

42. The attendance of each committee member and participant will be recorded by the Democratic Services Officer(s) supporting the committee. This will be achieved by recording their attendance on a sign in sheet at the physical meeting or using the attendance record from the remote meeting software to confirm attendance at the meeting. These records will be combined and added into the minutes of the meeting before being published on the Council's website.

43. Committee Members are to inform Democratic Services if they are unable to attend a meeting and their apologies will be recorded: at the meeting, in the minutes of the meeting and published on the Council's website.

Observing Meetings

Webcast meetings

44. The main purpose of webcasting is to aid transparency, governance and accountability by giving members of the public, elected members, officers and other interested parties the opportunity to observe meetings without having to attend in person and for the Council to have an official audio and visual record of its decision-making process.

45. The following formal meetings of the Council will either be webcast by being streamed live or recorded for subsequent upload to the Council's webcasting website within 48 hours of the meeting.
- Council
 - Cabinet
 - Planning Committee
 - Governance and Audit Committee
 - Children and Young People Scrutiny Committee
 - Community & Adult Services Scrutiny Committee
 - Economy & Culture Scrutiny Committee
 - Environmental Scrutiny Committee
 - Policy Review and Performance Scrutiny Committee
 - Standards and Ethics Committee
46. Where resources allow, other meetings can be streamed live or recorded for subsequent upload to the Council webcasting webpages, if it is considered by the Chair that the meeting or items being considered at that meeting are of significant public interest.
47. Webcasting does not replace the formal record of the meeting and the decisions taken, which are published on the Council website in the form of minutes and retained in hard copy in accordance with the Council's retention policy.
48. The full webcasting protocol is included in Part 5 Of the Council's Constitution to:
- Ensure compliance with its obligations under the Data Protection Act 1998 and the Human Rights Act 1998.
 - To specify the notifications of webcasting in agenda packs, for public speakers and observers and at the start of each meeting being streamed or recorded
 - To ensure that appropriate signage is provided at physical meeting venues that recording is taking place.
 - Provide the Chair with the discretion to terminate or suspend the webcast in appropriate circumstances
 - Safeguard that no exempt or confidential agenda items will be webcast.
 - The availability of webcasts to be viewed on the Council's website and subsequently stored in accordance with the Council's records management procedures.
 - Allow the removal of webcasts or parts of webcasts by the Monitoring Officer.

Physical Attendance of Observers at Multi-location Meetings

49. Observers will also be able to attend the physical element of meetings from the public gallery in each of the primary locations.

Physical attendance of observers for Remote Meetings

50. To enable those observers who do not have access to the internet to view either fully remote or non-webcast meetings, they can request to attend a public viewing of that meeting. For viewing a fully remote meeting this will require them to request this facility 48 hours prior to the remote meeting to enable arrangements to be made in Committee Room 4 or another suitable location in County Hall for the viewing.

Online Meeting Platforms

51. The Council will continue to use Microsoft Teams as its primary remote meeting platform. This platform should only be used by Elected Members from their Council provided devices to maintain the effective security of its meetings. Non-Council devices may be used with prior arrangement with Democratic Services, although the functionality available when using these "guest" devices may differ from that provided by the Council. Other participants are able to join meetings using links contained within the meeting invitation which is circulated to all participants.
52. Zoom will provide support for the simultaneous translation of Welsh at meetings.
53. The Council's conferencing system will include multi-location meeting software which will support simultaneous translation and provide additional meeting functionality.

Publication of meeting information

Public information

54. The production and publication of the Programme of Meetings, public agenda, reports and minutes are facilitated by the Council's committee administration software Civica -Modern.gov. Meeting participants are sent an email which includes links to the electronic agenda pack three working days prior to a meeting.
55. The software enables the Council to publish public information to its English and Welsh webpages for the public to view. The public are also able to subscribe to updates on the Councillors and Meetings webpages and identify any specific meetings or topics which they have an interest in. Once registered, the Modern.gov system will automatically provide them with electronic updates when new information is published on the website.
56. Modern.gov is also available to download as an app from the iTunes store, Google Play and Microsoft Store which allows participants, observers and members of the public to view the Councils' meeting information. The Modern.gov app provides a paperless facility which enables participants to annotate their meeting document during their preparation for a meeting.
57. For those participants with an identified need or to provide ease of reading for more complex documents, hard copies can be provided with prior arrangement with Democratic Services.

Non Public Information

58. Legislation requires that some information is not to be made publicly available and this is known as exempt or confidential information. When this type of information is considered at a formal meeting the documents are published on the Council's intranet and are only available to those entitled to view them. The publication of these documents is also supported by the Modern.gov app but participants will be required to register the device they intend to use for viewing these documents with Democratic Services. Successful registration of a device will provide access to the Councils "private" modern.gov network but will still limit the availability of the information to those entitled to view it.

Consideration of exempt or confidential information at meetings.

59. When exempt or confidential information is to be considered at a formal meeting, wherever possible the agenda will schedule those items at the end of the meeting, so as to minimise any inconvenience to observers who will be required to leave the meeting at that point.
60. Agenda items which contain public information, and which are not fully exempt or confidential can be considered in a public environment. Should any participant wish to refer to the exempt or confidential information the Chair must be informed, and the meeting should exclude the press and public before continuing.
61. When an exempt or confidential item is planned to be considered the following options may be used to ensure that the information is not shared with others than those entitled to receive it:
 - a. an additional "private" remote meeting can be established by Democratic Services which will only include participants entitled to consider the exempt information. When the meeting moves into exempt session the entitled participants will leave the public meeting and join the private meeting, leaving the remainder of the participants in the public remote meeting.
 - b. request that those not entitled to consider the exempt information leave the public remote meeting or be moved to the "virtual" lobby whilst the exempt information is considered.
62. The meeting recording and webcast will be paused and a notification that the meeting is not currently open to the public will be displayed on the broadcast. In the physical part of the meeting any observers will be requested to leave the room whilst the exempt item is considered.
63. When consideration of the exempt information has been completed and there are further public items to be considered, all remote participants will be invited to re-join the public remote meeting and the recording and webcast will be resumed. The observers or participants attending the physical meeting will be invited to return into the meeting venue.

Access and Participation at meetings

64. When elected or appointed to a committee or decision-making body, participants who are elected members will be able to use their Council issued ICT devices to receive meeting information and which will provide remote meeting software. Other committee members will be offered council ICT devices but will be able to use their own devices where appropriate.

Training and induction

65. Committee Members will be provided with an appropriate induction to enable them to actively participate at meetings. The induction will include the use of the software for joining remote meetings, meetings procedures for joining and participating in physical and remote meetings, an understanding of the Code of Conduct and Council's decision-making process and any committee specific procedures.

66. Training for some committee members is mandatory due to the requirements of the Council's Constitution or the committee's terms of reference.
67. A comprehensive guide to joining remotely in formal meetings is at Appendix A to this policy.

Officer Support at meetings

68. Primary support for multi-location meeting will be provided by Democratic Services Officers. This will include the:
 - "Organiser" who will circulate the meeting appointment which will include a link to enable participants to join remotely. The organiser will also monitor the remote participants and assist them to join or re-join the remote meeting.
 - "Clerk" who will support the meeting, facilitate any voting and take the minutes
 - "Recording controller" will facilitate the live streaming of the meeting or the recording and subsequent upload of the meeting to the Council's webcasting webpage.
 - For larger or more technical meetings an additional Democratic Services Officer will support the other Democratic Services officers as necessary during the meeting.
 - Technical support and advice may also be provided at the meeting by other specialist officers i.e. Legal, Planning, Scrutiny or Licensing Officers who can assist the Chair, participants and observers at meetings. The support for these meetings may be provided remotely or by physical attendance. Consultation between the relevant officers, their managers and the Chair will be necessary to ensure that appropriate service delivery and support requirements are met.
69. Additional support may be also provided by ICT Officers to ensure that the technology used during meetings operates effectively and that the meeting can be progressed as planned.

Voting at Meetings

70. The voting arrangements will reflect the requirements in the Council's Constitution.

Seeking Consensus

71. To negate the need for a formal vote, the Chair can seek a consensus from the meeting participants. The chair will state the recommendation and request that participants confirm if they have any objections to the recommendation(s) and if they do indicate any objection in the chat function in teams accordingly. The Chair will wait approximately 30 seconds to allow participants to indicate their objection and if none are received the recommendations are considered as being carried. If however, there are objections the Chair initiates a vote.

Method of Voting

72. In a physical meeting voting will be carried out electronically and the names of those voting for, against or abstaining from voting will be recorded electronically.

A Roll-Call vote

73. The roll call vote requires the Clerk to ask each participant individually if they are for or against the recommendation or if they wish to abstain from the vote. If a participant cannot be contacted to provide their vote, the clerk will continue with the roll-call vote and return to those participants who have not responded following once an attempt to contact all participants has been made. If the participant cannot be contacted after a second attempt to provide their vote and there is a quorum in attendance at the meeting the participant is considered as not in attendance.
74. Responses are recorded and when all of the participants in attendance have indicated their intentions, the Clerk will then collate the responses and inform the Chair of the outcome of the vote.
75. The Chair will announce the outcome of the vote to the meeting and a summary of the vote is pasted into the chat facility in teams to inform the meeting participants of the details of the vote.

Chairing meetings

76. Chairing a multi-location meeting is very different to chairing a face-to-face meeting and the Chair will be supported to carry out their role as outlined in the Officer Support at meetings section above. The role of the Chair is particularly challenging at a physical meeting with some participants joining remotely. The “balance” between individuals in a room, and those joining by remote means, will have a significant effect on how business will be transacted.
77. Chairs have a particular responsibility to prepare for a multi-location meeting, in a more planned and directed way than might be necessary for a physical meeting. This may involve the Chair consulting with officers, committee members and participants in advance of a meeting.

Chat Function use by Remote Participants

78. The chat function provides a simple method of enabling the chair to manage the meeting and to enable the remote participants to communicate with the chair. Remote participants should only use the Chat facility for the following occasions:
 - Speak – When the remote participant wishes to speak
 - Declaration – to advise the Chair that the remote participant wishes to make a declaration of interest other than at the Declarations of interest item on the agenda.
 - Point of Order – to notify the Chair that a remote participant has a Point of Order to make and the Chair should invite the participant to speak at the earliest opportunity.
 - Explanation - to notify the Chair that a remote participant has a Point of Personal Explanation to make and the Chair should invite the participant to speak at the earliest opportunity.
79. The “Chat” facility is only to be used for communicating with the Chair and is not to be used for offline discussions with other participants during the meeting.

80. Detailed Guidance for Chairs is at Appendix C

Appendix A –Guidance For Participants - Joining Remote Meetings

Preparing for a remote meeting

During a formal meeting participant will be expected to be able to fully interact from your remote location when the meeting starts. The following is a checklist to ensure that you are fully prepared:

Environment:

- ✓ Make sure that you set up your device in an area where you are unlikely to be disturbed. Remember that you should be the only person able to hear any confidential or exempt items being discussed.
- ✓ Ensure that your broadband connection is sufficient strong in that location to join and remain connected for the full duration of the meeting. If your broadband signal is weak you may wish to consider attending the physical meeting location. The legislation requires that you are able to be seen and heard.
- ✓ Ensure that your background is neutral and there is nothing that can be seen when you are on camera which may compromise your privacy or challenge your professionalism.
- ✓ Turn your microphone off, but be ready to activate it if you are called to speak. You should deactivate it when you have finished speaking to lessen background noise/interference for others.
- ✓ Have some water handy (off camera) to keep yourself hydrated throughout the duration of the meeting
- ✓ Turn off any noisy gadgets which may be distracting to yourself or other participants.

Equipment and software

- ✓ Ensure that your device is connected to the Council's Network between meetings to enable you to receive and manage the latest software and security updates.
- ✓ Check that Microsoft Teams is installed and you are able to connect to others.
- ✓ Check that your microphone is working and that the settings are correct. Too loud and there may be some feedback too quiet and you and the observers won't be able to hear you. Consider using headphones or earphones (with a microphone), similar to those you may use with your mobile telephone.
- ✓ Ensure that the camera is positioned to provide a clear, front-on view of your face. This may require to consider the lighting in the room you're in (for example, sitting in front of a window may plunge your face into shadow). It may also involve putting your laptop on top of a couple of books so that you can look into the camera face on.

- ✓ Fully charge your equipment and ensure that you have easy access to charging facilities as remote meetings have a higher than normal power consumption.
- ✓ Ensure you know how to mute/unmute your microphone and to switch your camera on and off.
- ✓ Ensure you know how to use the "chat" facility as this may be used to show that you wish to speak. You should only use this facility for these purposes and not to conduct private conversations or a commentary as you might in private meetings.
- ✓ Familiarise yourself with the "emergency contact numbers" for the meeting which will provide you with technical support should you have any difficulties during the meeting.

General Meeting Preparation

- ✓ Determine how you can easily access the meeting agenda pack. Options may include the use of the latest version of the Modern.gov app on the same or different device, or by viewing reports from the Council's intranet.
Note:
If your camera is active during a meeting the "observers" may still be able to see you when you are using other applications on the same screen and you can't see them.
- ✓ When reading the reports consider whether you have any "Declarations of Interest" that you will need to be made at the meeting. Inform Democratic Services of any declarations that you need to make (as these will be read out at the start of a remote meeting) or contact the Monitoring/Legal officer well in advance of the meeting if you need their advice. Do not wait until just before a meeting as this will be problematic to provide you with the appropriate advice. Once you have received any advice please ensure you let Democratic Services know if you will be declaring an interest.

During a Meeting:

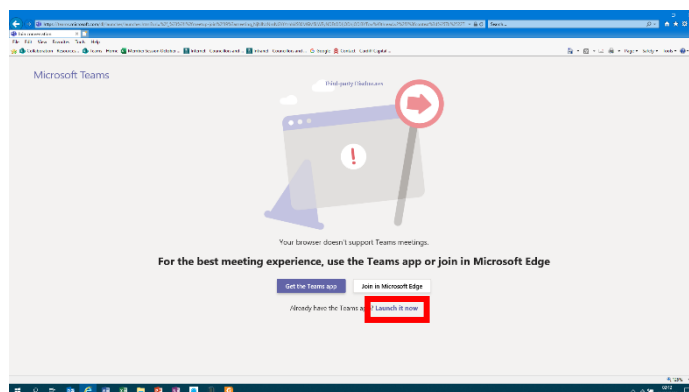

- ✓ Prepare thoroughly. The Chair and the public will assume that everyone has read any reports which are being considered and will be looking for observations and focussed debate.
- ✓ Do not use additional video conferencing software i.e. skype during the meeting as this will put you "on hold" for the main meeting.
- ✓ Remote meetings are likely to need to be shorter and more focused. Focus on the business at hand. Make sure that your contributions are necessary and do not repeat points already made.

Note:

It is recommended that all elected members attend a practice remote meeting to familiarise themselves with the remote meetings procedures and software. Please contact Democratic Services for more information.

Joining a Formal Meeting using MS Teams

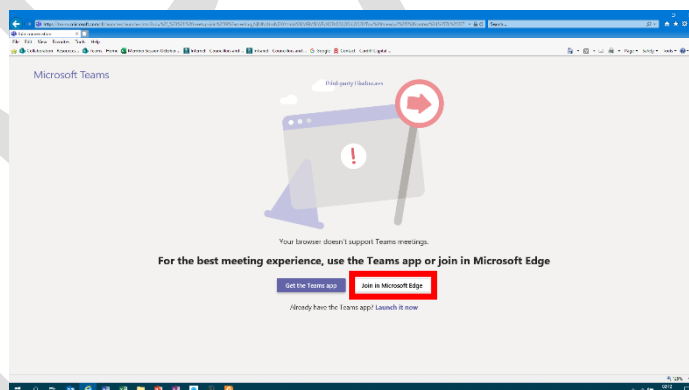

To join a "Teams Meeting" click on the "Join Microsoft Teams Meeting" links in the Teams calendar appointment. When you click on the link, attendees using Council provided device should be provided direct access to the meeting. However if the following screen is displayed and you have a Council or other device with Microsoft Teams installed on it you should use the "Launch it now" link.

Depending on the configuration of your device you may be placed in a "virtual lobby" or waiting area before being authorised to join the meeting.

Other participants

If you are not using a Council device you will need to click on the "Join Microsoft Teams Meeting" links in your invitation or calendar appointment. This will direct you to a webpage and you will need to select either the "Join via the Web" or "Join in Microsoft Edge" options as shown below. When you have clicked on the relevant option and depending on the configuration of your device you may be placed in a "virtual lobby" or waiting area before being authorised to join the meeting.

IMPORTANT:

Elected Members and other participants are requested not to action any prompt they may receive to grant meeting access to individuals in the "Virtual Lobby". Officers from Democratic Services will manage this functionality to ensure that only those entitled to join the meeting are permitted to do so.

Remote meetings will be open at least 15 minutes prior to the start of the meeting as published on the agenda. This will provide an opportunity for all participants to join the meeting and confirm that their equipment is working appropriately and for officers to provide any additional support that is needed.

Officers will be monitoring the participants joining the meeting, identifying those who have sent their apologies and those who have yet to join the meeting.

The Chair will join the meeting 5 minutes the start of the meeting to provide any direction to the participants and instruct the Officers to start the recording or webcast of the meeting at the appropriate time.

If a participant is late joining the meeting, they are to send a chat message to advise the chair that they wish to speak. The Chair will invite them to speak. This will then enable them to be added to the record of attendance and provide any declarations of interest (as necessary)

Joining a meeting by Telephone

In the event of technical issues preventing an attendee from being able to join a meeting using Microsoft Teams each meeting is allocated a conference call number and a Conference Identification number as shown below:

For the meeting shown above, the number to dial into the meeting is shown as +44 20 3855 5202. This requires anyone attempting to dial into the meeting from the UK to dial 020 3855 5205. An automated voice will request that you key in the Conference ID followed by a hashtag. Using your telephone keypad type in the conference ID number i.e. 974 336 776 # for the conference ID shown above.

You will be asked for your name and requested to wait in the virtual lobby. The meeting organiser from Democratic Services will be advised that you are waiting and provide you with access to the meeting.

Note: If you are intending to use the dial in facility for a meeting please inform Democratic Services in advance of the meeting.

Appendix B - Guidance for Public Participants at Meetings

To be developed

DRAFT

Appendix C - Guidance For Chairs

Prior to the meeting the Chair should:

- confirm the purpose and anticipated outcomes for each item on the agenda.
- ensure that any information essential for consideration at the meeting, is made available to participants.
- identify where participants may wish to contribute in the meeting.
- ensure that appropriate arrangements are in place to support effective participation.
- confirm that all participants (which may include external witnesses and members of the public or others) fully understand their role and how they can actively contribute to the meeting.
- ensure that they are aware of which participants are joining remotely.
- Any particular preparation that will need to be taken to If the Chair themselves is joining by remotely whilst other participants are present in a committee room.

At the start of a meeting the Chair should:

- Consider the accessibility of the meeting to the public, ensuring that observers are welcomed and that the business of the meeting is explained in a way that is understandable, including the operation of the multilocation meeting itself.
- Provide a reminder of meeting arrangements and policies, particularly relating to conduct and behaviour, and any advice on voting arrangements.
- Introduce themselves, the committee, officers present and other participants to ensure that those watching or listening to a broadcast are aware who is in attendance at the meeting.
- Identify how a support officer or other member may bring their attention someone wishing to make a comment through remote means or in the committee room.
- Occasionally confirm throughout the meeting that no one has been 'lost' due to technical issues and provide support to councillors experiencing challenges although additional support may be needed from supporting officers.

During the meeting the Chair should:

- Brief witnesses on expectations.
- Frame the meeting with reminders of the purpose of each agenda item, summarise decisions and actions for each item and again at the end of the meeting.
- Plan for the debate to be themed or otherwise structured rather than inviting comments generally, to ensure that all participants have an opportunity to contribute.
- develop an understanding the motivations and objectives of individual participants on specific agendas items and a sense what they may want to say and ask.
- avoid people speaking over each other or long silences, ask each member in turn for their contribution to an item, based on an understanding of what members wish to contribute
- check that all members are content, that they have been able to contribute, and if necessary, provide a reminder of any voting arrangements.

CARDIFF COUNCIL
CYNGOR CAERDYDD

CONSTITUTION COMMITTEE:

13 DECEMBER 2021

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF GOVERNANCE AND LEGAL SERVICES AND MONITORING OFFICER

CONSTITUTION UPDATE

Reason for this Report

1. To enable the Committee to give further consideration to the Council Meeting Procedure Rules in relation to Ordinary Motions; and officer delegations in respect of any regrading application submitted by an Operational Manager, to ensure the Constitution remains up to date and fit for purpose.

Background

2. The Constitution Committee's approved Terms of Reference are:

To review the Council's Constitution, and to recommend to Council and/or Executive any changes, except that the Committee will have authority (subject to the Monitoring Officer's advice) to make the following changes on behalf of the Council:-

- (a) Drafting improvements to enhance clarity and remove minor anomalies.
 - (b) Updating to reflect legislative changes and matters of record.
 - (c) Amendments to the Financial, Contracts and Land Procedure Rules (subject to the advice of the S.151 Officer being sought).
3. The Monitoring Officer has delegated authority to make minor amendments to the Constitution, to include:
 - (a) amending typographical and minor drafting errors;
 - (b) updating to reflect legislative changes and matter of record; and
 - (c) drafting improvements to enhance clarity and remove minor anomalies

(Scheme of Delegations, Section 4E reference LD16A).

4. The Council is required to keep its Constitution up to date and fit for purpose, and the Constitution Committee has responsibility for considering any necessary amendments in line with its terms of reference, set out in paragraph 2 above.

Issues

5. At its last meeting on 21st June 2021, the Committee considered a report on certain aspects of the Council Meeting Procedure Rules, which included rules relating to Ordinary Motions; and a Constitution Update report, which included consideration of delegations in respect of regrading applications submitted by Operational Managers. This report provides Committee with an update in relation to both of these matters.

Council Meeting Procedure Rules - Ordinary Motions

6. The current Council Meeting Procedure Rules are attached as Appendix A, for Members' information and reference. The rules on Ordinary Motions are set out in Rule 22(a) to 22(x).
7. The Committee is requested to give further consideration to the rules in relation to:
 - (i) the maximum number of Ordinary Motions which may be considered at each Council meeting;
 - (ii) the scope of Ordinary Motions; and
 - (iii) amendments to Ordinary Motions.

Maximum Number of Motions

8. The maximum number of Ordinary Motions is limited to a maximum of 2 motions at each Council meeting (with the exception of the Annual Council and Budget Council meetings, and excluding Urgent Ordinary Motions and Ordinary Motions at any Extraordinary Council Meeting) – Rule 22(f).
9. Under Rule 22(g) 'Ordinary Motions will be allocated amongst the political groups in proportion to their representation on the Council and as agreed between the political groups, subject to:
 - (i) No political group recognised by the Council shall be allocated less than one Ordinary Motion in a municipal year. If necessary, the maximum number of Ordinary Motions at a Council meeting (set under paragraph (f) above) may be increased to accommodate this.
 - (ii) Cabinet Green Papers (debated at full Council under Rule 21) shall be deducted from the number of Ordinary Motions allocated to the leading group.

- (iii) Cabinet Members and Assistants to Cabinet Members shall be disregarded in the calculation of political proportionality for the purposes of the allocation of Ordinary Motions under this Rule.’
10. The allocation of Motions to each political group is to be reviewed annually by the leaders of the political groups in consultation with the Chair (Rule 22(h)).
11. Rule 22(i) provides that:
- ‘If more than the maximum number of Motions permitted under paragraph (f) above are submitted for a particular Council meeting, the Chair shall decide which Motions are to be taken, following consultation with the party groups.
- Factors to be considered in selecting Motions shall include the urgency of the Motion (whether it may reasonably be taken at a later meeting); any policy, budget or other significance to the Council; and the number of Motions from the relevant group which have already been considered by full Council during that municipal year. The Chair’s decision shall be final.’
12. The Committee has been requested to give further consideration to the factors to be considered in selecting Motions, specifically, ‘the number of Motions from the relevant group which have already been considered by full Council during that municipal year’. It has been submitted that, in considering the number of Motions previously taken by a relevant group, account should also be taken of the number allocated to that group. It is understood that this means that it should be the proportion of a group’s allocated number of Motions which should be considered, rather than simply the number. The Committee is invited to consider amending Rule 22(i) to this effect.
13. Other factors which are, in practice, considered if more than the maximum number of Motions are submitted, include the order in which the Motions are submitted and whether a Motion has been put back at the previous Council meeting. The Committee is recommended to add these factors to the list set out in Rule 22(i).
14. Under Rule 7(b) “The Chair shall have discretion to conduct the meeting to secure proper full and effective debate of business items”. The Monitoring Officer has advised that this rule, and the wide discretion given to the Chair of a meeting under the common law, allows the Chair the discretion to increase the maximum number of Motions at a particular Council meeting, if the Chair considers it appropriate to do so in all the circumstances, having particular regard to the factors set out and following consultation with party groups. It is recommended that the Chair’s discretion in this regard should be explicitly set out within Rule 22(i) for the avoidance of any doubt.
15. The suggested amendments referred to in paragraphs 12 to 14 above are shown below:
- ‘If more than the maximum number of Motions permitted under paragraph (f) above are submitted for a particular Council meeting, the Chair shall decide which Motions are to be taken, following consultation with the party groups.

Factors to be considered in selecting Motions shall include the urgency of the Motion (whether it may reasonably be taken at a later meeting); the order in which Motions were lodged; whether a Motion has been put back from a previous Council meeting; any policy, budget or other significance to the Council; and the proportion of the allocated number of Motions from the relevant group which have already been considered by full Council during that municipal year. The Chair has the discretion to increase the number of Motions permitted at a particular Council meeting if s/he is satisfied, having regard to all relevant factors, that it is appropriate to do so; and the Chair's decision shall be final.'

16. The Committee is also invited to consider any further changes it may wish to make to the rules on the number of Motions, such as, inserting any additional factors to be taken into account when selecting Motions for a particular Council meeting if there are more than the maximum number of two Motions submitted.

Scope of Ordinary Motions

17. At its last meeting in June 2021, the Committee considered the scope of Ordinary Motions and noted that the current rules say that:

'Ordinary Motions must be in relation to Relevant Business and must not be Inappropriate Business (as defined in Rule 35)' – Rule 22(j).

18. Rule 35 says:

"Relevant Business" means matters for which the Council has a responsibility and which substantially affect the well-being of the administrative area of the Council and/or the citizens (or a significant group of them) of the Council.

"Inappropriate Business" means matters that:

- (i) are not in relation to a matter for which the Council has a responsibility and which affects the administrative area or citizens of the Council;
- (ii) are defamatory, frivolous or offensive;
- (iii) require the disclosure of confidential or exempt information; or
- (iv) relate to the personal circumstances or conduct of any officer and Member or conditions of service of employees; or
- (v) relate to an individual, particular group or business or the questioner's own particular circumstances; or
- (vi) are ultra vires the Council or unlawful.

19. The Committee noted that, under the current rules, if a Motion is submitted which relates to a matter for which the Council does not have responsibility, it would fall outside of the permitted scope for a Motion and would not be allowed.

20. At its last meeting, the Committee considered whether the scope should be widened, by amending the definition of Relevant Business to mean matters for which the Council has responsibility OR which substantially affect the well-being of Cardiff, so that motions over which the Council has no responsibility would be allowed if they related to matters which substantially affect the well-being of Cardiff or a significant group of its citizens.

21. After discussion of different views on this issue, the Committee agreed that, in recognition of the Council's legitimate role in lobbying national government and other responsible bodies in relation to matters within their respective competence, the permitted scope of Motions should be widened to reflect this. The Monitoring Officer was asked to draft amendments to the rules for consideration by the Committee.

22. The Committee is invited to consider the following suggested amendments to the definitions of Relevant Business and Inappropriate Business in Rule 35:

"Relevant Business" means:

- (i) _____ -matters for which the Council has a responsibility or which call on central government or another responsible body to do or not do something which is within their powers or responsibility; and
- (ii) _____ which substantially affect the well-being of the administrative area of the Council and/or the citizens (or a significant group of them) of ~~the Council~~ Cardiff.

"Inappropriate Business" means matters that:

- (i) are not ~~in relation to a matter for which the Council has a responsibility and which affects the administrative area or citizens of the Council~~ Relevant Business;
- (ii) are defamatory, frivolous or offensive;
- (iii) require the disclosure of confidential or exempt information; or
- (iv) relate to the personal circumstances or conduct of any officer and Member or conditions of service of employees; or
- (v) relate to an individual, particular group or business or the questioner's own particular circumstances; or
- (vi) are ultra vires the Council or unlawful.

Amendments to Ordinary Motions

23. The rules on amendments to ordinary motions (set out in Rule 22(r) to (x)) currently make no provision for amendments which may be (submitted in accordance with the rules and) accepted by the proposer of a motion. Specifically, it seems unclear whether:

- (i) the amendment, as accepted, should be treated as carried; or
- (ii) the amendment should be put to the vote, irrespective of its acceptance (unless it constitutes an alteration of the proposer's own Motion, made by the proposer with the consent of the meeting under Rule 22(q)).

24. In order to clarify the position, Members are invited to consider inserting an additional rule after Rule 22(u), as follows:

'(ua) If the proposer of a Motion accepts a proposed amendment (of which notice has been duly given in accordance with Rule 22(r)), the amendment shall become part of the substantive Motion, unless the Chair rules that the amendment is fundamentally inconsistent with the Motion, in which case, the amendment shall be put to the vote.'

Regrading Applications of Operational Managers – Monitoring and Oversight of Chief Executive's delegated power

25. At its last meeting, the Committee considered the Scheme of Delegations provisions for the determination of regrading applications submitted by officers, namely:
- (a) for officers at Operational Manager level and below, applications would be determined under officer delegations (by the Chief HR Officer or the Chief Executive, under the Scheme of Delegations, Section 4E delegations reference HR1 and CE5 respectively); and
 - (b) for Chief Officers and Deputy Chief Officers (as statutorily defined), applications would be determined by the Employment Conditions Committee (ECC) under its approved terms of reference.
26. However, in a couple of exceptional cases, where an Operational Manager may report directly to a Chief Officer, this would technically bring them within the statutory definition of a Deputy Chief Officer (defined as any officer who reports directly, or is directly accountable, to a chief officer, except for secretarial, clerical and support staff).
27. This meant that for most Operational Managers, a regrading application would be determined under officer delegations by the Chief Executive or the Chief HR Officer, within the current remuneration framework for Operational Managers; but for any Operational Manager who reports directly to a Chief Officer, their regrading application would need to be determined by the ECC.
28. In order to clarify that that the ECC's responsibility for deciding regrading requests of Chief Officers and Deputy Chief Officers (as statutorily defined) does not include Operational Managers, whose applications may be determined under the Chief Executive's delegated authority, the Committee agreed that this anomaly should be corrected by amending the ECC's terms of reference, as follows:
- '(a) to consider and determine policy and issues arising from the organisation, terms and conditions of Chief Officers and Deputy Chief Officers (as defined in the Local Authorities (Standing Orders) (Wales) Regulations 2006), together with any other category of employee specified in Regulation from time to time where this is necessary, subject to the approval of Council in respect of any determination or variation of the remuneration of Chief Officers;*
- (b) to decide requests for re-grading of Chief Officers and Deputy Chief Officers (as defined in the Local Authorities (Standing Orders) (Wales) Regulations 2006), except for Operational Managers deemed to be classed as Deputy Chief Officers, whose applications may be determined under Chief Executive officer delegation within the remuneration framework for Operational Managers, together with any other category of employee specified in Regulation from time to time, whether by way of appeal by an* employee against a decision to refuse a re-grading application or to decide applications for re-grading which are supported, subject to the approval of Council in respect of any determination or variation of the remuneration of a Chief Officer.

(c) All Members of the Committee will be required to undertake relevant training to enable them to properly discharge their duties.'

29. The Committee noted that the Trade Unions had been consulted about the change to the Employment Conditions Committee's terms of reference, and had raised no concerns.
30. The Committee also noted that the Head of Paid Service has statutory responsibility for appointments, dismissals and taking disciplinary action for all Council staff, except for chief officers and deputy chief officers (under the Local Authorities (Standing Orders)(Wales) Regulations 2006).
31. However, some Members requested that suitable monitoring and oversight arrangements should be put in place to ensure the Chief Executive's delegated power is only used sparingly.
32. The amendments to the ECC terms of reference were therefore agreed by Committee, and subsequently approved by full Council in June 2021. It was also agreed that arrangements would be put in place in relation to monitoring and oversight of the exercise of delegated powers for regrading applications of Operational Managers falling within the statutory definition of a Deputy Chief Officer (set out in paragraph 26 above).
33. Further consideration has been given to appropriate monitoring and oversight arrangements, and the recommendation of the Monitoring Officer, in consultation with the Chair of this Committee and the Chief HR Officer, is that this may be achieved by providing for the regrading of any Operational Manager deemed as a Deputy Chief Officer to be reported in the Pay Policy Statement (required under section 38 of the Localism Act 2011) which is reported annually to both Cabinet and Council.
34. As Members may be aware, the Pay Policy Statement sets out the authority's policies in relation to the pay of its chief officers and may include any additional relevant information. It should be noted, however, that the Pay Policy Statement sets out general principles underpinning decisions on pay, not specific numerical data on pay and reward (information on the remuneration of senior officers is included in notes to the Council's Statement of Accounts, under the Accounts and Audit (Wales) Regulations 2014).
35. In order to reflect the amendments to the ECC's terms of reference, and clarify and simplify officer delegations in respect of the regrading of Operational Managers, it is recommended that the officer delegations (set out in Section 4E of the Scheme of Delegations) should be amended as follows:

- (i) To insert a new delegation for the Chief Executive, making specific provision for regrading applications of Operational Managers, using the currently unused delegation reference CE8, as follows:

'CE8 ~~[Not used]~~ To determine any application for re-grading of an Operational Manager, within the approved remuneration framework'

- (ii) To amend the Chief HR Officer's delegation reference HR1, to reflect the Chief Executive's delegation in respect of Operational Managers, as follows:

'HR1 Amendments to Establishment – To approve the proposals of Chief Officers to:

- Determine any applications for re-grading at of staff below Operational Manager Level ~~and below~~ (CIS 4.C.134)
- Vary their establishment by:- (CIS 4.C.238)
 - o Deleting posts
 - o Creating posts (CIS 4.C.217)
 - o Re-designating and redefining existing posts.

36. Members may wish to note that enquiries were also made with the Audit Manager about whether this issue should be reported to the Governance and Audit Committee. However, as it was clear that this is not within the terms of reference of the Committee, the Audit Manager's view was that the Governance and Audit Committee's work focuses on seeking assurance that there are effective arrangements for compliance and control across the Council, and the Committee does not normally scrutinise individual decisions. This option has therefore not been pursued.

Legal Implications

37. The Local Government Act 2000 and the Local Authority Constitution (Wales) Direction 2002 requires the authority to keep its constitution up to date.

38. The recommended Constitution amendments set out in this report require the approval of full Council.

39. Other relevant legal provisions are set out in the body of the report.

Financial Implications

40. There are no direct financial implications arising from the recommendation of this report. When delegations are exercised, they are accompanied by detailed financial and legal advice and are to be contained within the budget framework.

Recommendations

The Committee is recommended to:

1. Recommend that any regrading applications of Operational Managers who fall within the statutory definition of a Deputy Chief Officer are to be reported within the annual Pay Policy Statement considered by Cabinet and approved by full Council; and
2. Agree the Constitution amendments set out in this report and recommend the same to full Council for approval.
