- 39% of the parents responding had more than one child at the school. The category of Professional interested parties included teachers, employees of the school, Governors, Flying Start staff and Ward members.

- The majority of responses (93%) stated that they did not agree with the proposal; 6% stated that they did agree and 1% did not answer this question but did make comment elsewhere in their response that they wanted the school to remain open.
- Of the nine responses that agreed with the proposal, two caveated that certain concerns would need to be addressed.
- Respondents were asked to name their top three priorities when picking a primary school place for their children.¹ The chart below shows that the most important factors were quite evenly distributed with teaching staff the most important element, closely followed by the proximity to home. Equal emphasis was put upon class sizes, educational attainment and having siblings already in the school.

- The additional factors that people identified under the 'other' section included an ethos of well-being, safety and learning, and being part of a community.
- Proximity to home becomes the most significant criteria in picking a school (at 19%) when looking specifically at the responses from parents with children at Glan Yr Afon. Teaching staff and educational attainment were the next most important factors for this demographic.
